STARGAZING

It was amazing how great a crowd gathered to watch the two Wightman Cup tennis players, despite the short notice they gave us. The Bank as usual occupied their grandstand in force; how tired they must be of not having been able to sit down for ten whole days! Most of the offices must have knocked off early too, for by five o'clock the dollar seat were packed solid and late comers had collected in a serried mass at the far side of the court. I am sure at least half of them could see nothing whatever, but still they came. They must have been about ten deep all along that side. From where I was sitting I could only pick out three familiar faces—Mr. Maurice Barton right at the back, and the General and his A.D.C. on the row of chairs opposite the umpire. Among the hundreds of people on the stand I recognised: Major Duclos, the Canadian Trade Commissioner, Mr. Wolf and Mr. Davonport Browne, of the A.P.C., General Maurice Cohen, the most romantic figure in South China, and Lieutenant "Bill" Bailey, who is to be married to-morrow to Miss Margaret King. I thought she looked charming in a bright yellow jersey. I liked, too, Mrs. Elliott's large and shady hat Mrs. Owen Hughes' tiny one with the orange feather, Mrs. Bousfield's plum-coloured tam o'shanter, and Mrs. Nelson Jones' fascinating plumed sleeves.

BIEN SOIGNEE

THE PLAYERS

I am no authority on tennis, but I was more impressed with Mr. Fincher's subtle placing than with the base-line to base-line driving of the stars—even though I gather that was not nearly so easy as it looked. Miss Heeley seemed to be a bundle of energy, and danced about so strenuously that she was obviously tired out by the end of that everlasting second set. But it must be very trying to be Miss Round's opponent; she seems so utterly untrifled by even the apparently impossible shots. I would love to have seen her playing "Foker-Face" Helen—in equanimity they should have been an excellent match for each other.

HAPPY VALLEY

Saturday was Race Day again and lovely weather into the bargain. I would almost as soon watch the fashion parade stroking up and down the lawn as see my horse struggle not to be last. (Would you believe that two of them actually WERE, confound them?) Not that I lost so much, but it is so insulting to one's judgment. I can trust that much better on the question of clothes—and, what is more, be sure of a dollar or so for describing them to you! One way of making up one's losses. Isn't it?

DID THEY SPOT THE WINNER?

THE FASHION STAKES

There was a big field for this, the most important race of the day. Miss Scott Harston's White Collar won by a neck from Mrs. Sheldon's Pink Suit. There was a bit of a tussle for third place, which eventually went to Mrs. Tinson's Corset Sleeves, only just in front of Lady Burnival's Royal Blue, Lady Peck's Navy Blue, and Mrs. Sand's Old Rose, who came in together. Less than a length behind were Mrs. Sutton's Red Hat, Miss Sutton's Yellow Blouse, Mrs. Stellingworth's Angora Feather, and Miss O'Hagan's Printed Brown, and following closely were Miss Dowbiggin's Green Check, Mrs. Soames' Pink and Navy, Mrs. Smithers' Soft Tweed, and Mrs. Simmons' Bottle Green. This was a first-class race, and paid easily the best dividend of the afternoon.

IN PRAISE OF MURDER

Several books to recommend to you this week. I have been indulging in an orgy of detective stories, and though most of them were not worth even the time they took to skim through, there were three I really enjoyed. Don't you always pounce on a new Agatha Christie? Well, you will like "Lord Edgware Dies," if only because Poirot appears again in all his glorious self-confidence. Any Agatha Christie is readable, but the Poirot stories are undoubtedly the best. Then there is a new Ronald Knox; this I recommend for the excellence of its writing and the ingenuity of its plot. Though I contend that the actual murder was not sufficiently intelligent to have worked out anything so complicated, it is a wonderful scheme, and I have mentally tabulated the second idea as one worth remembering if ever I need it! A car and a hose—pipe—what more simple combination could you find?

Turning from simplicity to something in the "Father Brown" line, try the "Mad Hatter Mystery." This is by a new writer, one John Dickson Carr, and if he can produce more as good as this he is a man worth watching. I hope he is going to make a habit of at least one new book a year, or even keep pace with Edgar Wallace.

ROUND THE HEARTH

Now that the winter has begun I really must get down to solid reading again. Not that I never read in the summer, but the hours that I used to spend basking in the sun are now spent in front of the fire instead. (I am a very, very cat for warmth!) Can you imagine anything more comfortable than a big armchair, a roaring blaze, and a good book? How I should hate to live in a country where there are no open fireplaces—worse still, no fires at all! It would be bad enough to have no cold weather, with light clothes and mosquito nets all the year round; but to have to give up nursery tea, with a slice of current bread slowly browning at the end of the work, one's cheeks scorching, and one's fingers all butterfly—No, not for me. I'm not exactly domestic, but I do love making toast!

AN ETON BID FOR HARROW

The reported offer of King Prajadhipok of Siam of £3000 for the body of his recalcitrant Harrovian cousin reminds me of a similar example of his Majesty's lavishness in his youthful days.

At Eton, where he was a fag,
and, later, a fag-master, he was extremely popular. On one occasion he sent a fag to fetch his boots
from the local bootmaker.

The fag returned in 30 minutes with the boots. "They have been very well mended," said Prince Pradjadhipok. "How much do I owe?"

"Seven-and-six," was the reply.
The royal fag-master then produced a £5 note.

"Sorry," said the fag. "I can't change that." The Prince shrug-ged his shoulder. "Never mind,"
he said. "You can keep the change."

After this there was a keen demand to fag for the young man who is now King of Siam.

FAMOUS HUNTING BOX.

Barleyhorpe Hall, which was ablaze yesterday, though the home of the Cottemore Hounds, in that it was the Lowther hunting-box,
was not an old house. It was built in the Elizabethan style in 1843.

But in more prosperous days
Lord Lonsdale used to entertain there on a large scale, and there was general regret in the neighbouring township of Oakham when,
in 1927, the house was sold to Mr.
Kimble.

The Prince of Wales was a frequent visitor, to Barleyhorpe,
which makes an admirable headquarters for hunting, not only with the Cottemore but with the Quorn,
the Belvoir, Mr. Fernie's, and the Fitzwilliam also.

A QUIANT SURVIVAL.

On one of these visits the Prince,
I believe, duly submitted to the fine which Oakham imposes on any monarch, prince, duke, earl, or baron who drives through its streets. The tribute exacted takes the form of a horseshoe, which is hung in Oakham Castle.

The Prince's, along with some 200
others, including one contributed by Queen Elizabeth, is fashioned in gold.

FINGER PRINTS.

There is certain to be a great deal of discussion in legal circles over Lord Clyde's contention that the finger print system is not infallible.

Lord Clyde, who is the Lord Justice General of Scotland and the President of the Court of Session, was hearing an appeal of a shopkeeper whose conviction rested
almost entirely on a finger print.

It has been laid down by the Court of Criminal Appeal in England that such evidence may be accepted even though it be the sole ground of identification.

THE CHAMPAGNE BOTTLE.

The earliest case in Great Britain in which conviction was obtained from a jury on the evidence of finger prints alone, was in 1908.
It was a Birmingham burglary in which the prints of several fingers
were found on a champagne bottle.

In that case, it may be observed,
the jury accepted this evidence against the advice of the presiding judge.

The first case of the kind in the French courts also turned on marks
on a champagne bottle.

RENT PAID TO THE KING—IN HORSESHOES AND NAILS

The City of London Corporation
to-day obtained the right to hold and occupy two valuable pieces of land for another year by sending one of their officers to the Law Courts to chop faggots and to present the King's Remembrancer
with six horse-shoes and 61 nails
"for the use of the King."

The ceremony of paying these ancient quit rent services has been continued for 700 years, and the services are rendered in respect of a farm near Bridgnorth, Shropshire, and a piece of land in St.
Clement Dances, originally a forge,
but now the site of buildings.

Originally they were rendered to the Court of Exchequer, but the King's Remembrancer has officiated since 1869. Mr. A. F. I. Pickford, the City solicitor, attended at the Law Courts to render them
to-day.

For the farm in Shropshire he produced a new hatchet and bill-hook with which he cut the faggots
and for the forge he counted out
the horseshoe and nails.

The King's Remembrancer, Sir

George Bonner, formally acknowledged the services.

BAR EXAMINATIONS.

Seventy-one students of the Inns of Court passed the final examination for admission to the Bar held this term. Amongst them are four women:

Mrs. Mary Turton, Inner Temple.

Miss Mary Caroline Davies, Middle Temple.

Miss Beng Tek Lim, Inner Temple.

Miss Alice Raven, Lincoln's Inn.

Twenty-six other women students passed in one or more of the separate subjects of examination, among them being Baroness Adda Von Bruemmer.

The Hon. David John Watson,
son of Lord Thankerton, a Lord of Appeal-in-Ordinary, passed in the Elements of the Law of Contract,
and of the Law of Tort. Lord Hyde, the eldest son of the Earl of Clarendon, also passed this examination.

The total number of students examined in the various subjects was 890, and of those who passed 538.

THE BRANGWYN PANELS GO TO WALES.

So the Brangwyn panels, which the House of Lords rejected because of their unsuitability to the Neo-Gothic architecture there, are to find their home in the Assembly Hall of Swansea's new civic centre. Wales had another claimant for the honour, as Cardiff
wanted them for its City Hall.
Mr. Brangwyn was born in Bruges,
but his father came from Cardiff
and his mother from Cardiganshire.

The late Lord Iveagh paid £80,000 for the panels, and an offer of £40,000 is said to have been made from America for them.
Several English municipalities, including Birmingham, tried to get them, but the Iveagh trustees decided on the claims of Swansea.

The Cabinet is finding the task of remodelling the unemployment insurance scheme complex and difficult.

Ministers were deliberating on the problem yesterday. They are to return to it to-day.

Nobody will accuse them of undue haste in the matter. The intention is to introduce the new bill in a formal manner on Nov. 7—the date when the House of Commons will reconvene.

TWELVE MONTHS AFTER.

By a coincidence it was on this date last year that the final report of the Royal Commission, presided
over by Judge Holman Gregory,
K.C., was issued for publication.

The Government, therefore, will be producing their legislation precisely twelve months after the Commission's recommendations were disclosed.

In this case the Ministerial machine has obviously worked with very great deliberation. It is to be hoped the result will justify the delay.

A MODERNISED CANAL

Revival In British
Canal Traffic

At the beginning of last century the British canals were busy and prosperous. As a means of transport they had served a great purpose; but with the coming of the railways, their day seemed over. Some of them became almost derelict; on others the familiar horse-drawn barges continued to ply,
but they seemed rather like persistent relics of a bygone age. With the development of the internal-combustion engine and motor transport the canals
were almost completely disregarded except as picturesque features of the landscape.

Now there is a revival of canal traffic.
The internal combustion engine has not served its purpose; it has given them a new lease of life. The canal-boat is becoming a motor-boat,
and such is the belief in the future possibilities of the canals that one million pounds is now being spent on improving the greatest in the country,
the Grand Union Canal. Over fifty new locks are being built, many of them by the side of others which are more than one hundred years old; and loads of up to one hundred tons will soon be possible. For miles the canal banks have been transformed from rough,
fallen boundaries to concrete walls,
as smooth as the side of a swimming bath. Incidentally, the engineers have noted with interest and some surprise how well the canal engineers of the 18th century had done their job.

THE BRITISH LEGATION

Parliament Taking Interest

It is satisfactory to find that Parliament is disposed to take a definite interest in the establishment of closer touch between the British Legation and the centre of Chinese affairs. While there may be, as this journal has frequently pointed out, good reasons for resisting immediate abandonment of Peking, there seems to be a clear case for giving the seat of the Minister's activities a location
more in accord with the actualities of conditions here. If the asper-ities of Nanking—and perhaps legitimate doubts regarding its permanent command of Chinese capital confidence—create hesitation there is no reason why the Chinese Government's own practice should not be taken into account and the residence of the British Minister be moved to Shanghai. Hence he could keep in frequent and effective touch with Nanking and, to the greater reassurance of his own people, he would be able to obtain more readily that guidance to which Sir Miles Lampson, on more than one occasion, has expressed himself as indebted. Sir Miles himself has paid more visits to Shanghai than any of his predecessors. That straw shows the way of the wind.
It is only fair to his successor that a more determined support should be given in relief of disabilities
which are likely to be more acutely felt in the future. Moreover it is exceedingly desirable that the British community which has its main strength in Shanghai should be assisted in combatting the danger of uncertain leadership. The discussion in the House of Lords appeared happily to show a far keener perception of the importance of Shanghai—geographically and economically—than has always been evident in the London press in the past. Shanghai, indeed, is not only a barometer of the state of China; it is essentially the nerve centre of China's financial and political development. The Japanese example in this matter is significant. To the presence of the Japanese Minister in Shanghai must be greatly attributed the admirable solidarity which has, at times, been wanting in British approach to Sino-British relationships in past years.

Wu Shiu Wing, who, it will be recalled was charged before the Chief Justice at the October Criminal Sessions with participation
in a robbery at 275 Des Voeux Road
West, was before the Puisne Judge,
Mr. Justice Lindsell, yesterday on the same charge. It will be recalled that at the former hearing before the Chief Justice, the jury failed to agree, and were discharged.

CANADIAN MOUNTED
POLICE FIND CAIRN
Absent On Expedition For Three Years

Winnipeg, Canada.—Three members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police broke a three-year silence when they reported by radio to Headquarters in Ottawa that all was well, and a little later arrived in Ottawa with word of the mission which had kept them in the sub-Arctic since early in 1931.
In that year the Canadian Government decided to institute
a search for Dr. ELKE Krueger,
a German scientist and explorer,
and his Danish assistant, R. A.
Bjare, from whom no word
had been received since April, 1930, of their investigations north and west of Ellesmere Island.
Accordingly an expedition consisting of Corporal H. W. Stall-worthy and Constables Arthur Munro and R. W. Hamilton, of the Mounted Police, was despatched to the assistance of the explorers. With the aid of Eskimo guides, and transported in dog sleds and arctic, eventually the searchers discovered on Axel Heiberg Island, only 500 miles from the North Pole, a cairn erected by Dr. Krueger containing a note to the effect that he and his companion were proceeding westward over the ice to Melghen and Perley Islands.
No further trace of the men
could be found, and it is presumed they perished.

OFF THE BEATEN PATH IN JAPAN

Some Reminiscences
Of An Ideal

PART II.
By ALBERT C. DAVIS
HAKODATE

Leaving Matsushima by express train, our next stop is Aomori,
the starting point for the comfortable ferry service across Aomori bay to Hakodate. English is spoken on board, and foreign food served of good quality at very moderate prices; indeed, commencing with Aomori, the prices of everything in Yezo (Hakodate) are considerably less than in the case in Tokyo or Kobe. After a pleasant and safe four hours run,
we reached Hakodate, the very flourishing town with about 100,000 inhabitants. Hakodate, amongst other things, is to be noted for the enormous number of thieves and crooks which abound,
and make the eventide hideous
with their squalling and quarrelling, more than rivaling Colombo
in this respect. The public gardens are worth visiting and contain a fisheries museum, which can be entered for a very small fee. Hakodate is also known as Yezo, the capital of this island being Sapporo. Salmon fishing, wild duck shooting, and deer and wolf hunting, in winter, can be had in abundance, and its chief mineral wealth would appear to be coal. Numerous active and remarkable volcanoes can be seen and visited, Noboribetsu, which we shall visit later being one of the most famous, by reason both of its extremely appalling aspect,
and the virtue of its sulphur springs' healing qualities. The winter is crisp, and the air delightfully invigorating. The views at all times are beguiling, but particularly in the Spring and Autumn, when the atmosphere is clearest.

SAPPORO
Mount Sapporo is the capital of Hakodate, or Yezo, Island, and represents the first efforts of the Japanese Government to colonize Hakodate. Fruit trees, imported from America, produce plentifully, while the region is celebrated not only for its fine fruit products,
but for its delicious preserves.
One of the best known Japanese beers also takes its name from this town, where it is manufactured. Japanese inns here are cheap and clean, accommodation, including food, being obtainable
from Y3.00 per day.

JOZANKAI
From Sapporo we proceeded to Jozankai station, and from thence to the magnificent Jozankai Gorge
by motor car. A day spent there will be well repaid with the wild and barbaric scenery which meets one's gaze at every turn.
Leaving Jozankai by train we reached Chitose, and were enabled to visit one of the three Government fishing hatcheries established in Japan, the Chitose Sake Masu Fukajo, Hokkaido-cho, where fish in various stages of development were willingly shown to us.
Here could be seen the spawn of salmon caught in the fishing traps
in the nearby river, as well as speckled and rainbow trout, the spawn of which had been imported from America, and had, by careful and scientific attention, grown up into fish. The salmon spawned, when the fish has reached an average length of about two inches are deposited in the river from whence they find their way eventually to the sea, not to return until two or three years afterwards, when,
most likely, they will share the fate of their parents. The trout,
when of a sufficiently large size,
are sent all over the country to stock the rivers and lakes where fishing is allowed. It was all very interesting, and well worth the time spent in visiting the hatchery, which is extremely well equipped, and under the direct supervision of experts.

NOBORIBETSU
Leaving Chitose, the train takes us to Shiraoi, where the largest Ainu village can be visited. The Ainu people, a poor illiterate lot, seem to welcome visitors to their poverty stricken huts, and will there display such treasures as they possess.
No aims were asked for, but specimens of local postcards were offered for sale, at a rather exorbitant price. The Ainu women have a weird custom of tattooing
their upper lip in such a way that at a slight distance it would seem as though they had grown
a heavy and luxuriant moustache,
a form of "beaky aid" not seen elsewhere in Japan fortunately,
for the appearance of this apparent addition is not by any means pleasing to Western minds.
Departing from Shiraoi with the next train, after dealing with the Ainu village, our next stopping place was at Noboribetsu, a very famous spa. Excellent accommodation in Japanese inns is to be obtained at extremely moderate prices, a nice room with Japanese

food being obtained for from Y2.
exclusive per day, while foreign food can also be obtained on request at a la carte. Very shortly after one has stepped from the train the odor of sulphur is perceptible in the air, and such exasperating torments as mosquitoes, midges, etc., are conspicuous by their absence, due no doubt
to their dislike of the sulphur fumes.
A short walk enables one to visit a very fascinating spot,
called "the Valley of Hell" of Jikoku-dani, which is a mountain volcano. Fearful to look at, yet fascinating with its highly inflamed, corroded and disintegrating crater. Through its rotten crust, scalding mud, super-heated steam, furiously boiling water, and sulphurous gases seem to spurt right out of the "white hot heart of Hell" itself.

PROMISCUOUS BATHING

Water pours out from pipes, to the various bath houses where promiscuous bathing is indulged in, although in most places small private baths can also be obtained upon request. The heat of the water can be regulated, but is usually taken as hot as can possibly be borne. The stranger, unfamiliar with the time-honoured custom of rural Japan, will be curiously impressed, and perhaps shocked, with this promiscuous bathing of the sexes in all the baths, but while he wonders, he cannot, at the same time, fail to note the natural modesty and decorum which everywhere prevails. If it is borne in mind that "in Japan the nude is seen, but not looked at," the unfamiliar sight to him will fail to have any strange significance, and will cease to distract his attention.

"I WAS A SPY"

Powerful British Drama

This is a British Gaumont Picture which has recently been released at Elstree. It is, to be shown at one of the local theatres very shortly. It has been classified as great a film as "Cavalcade" and theatre fans will not be disappointed when it is shown here. The English papers describe it, a complete picture, which will be remembered as a milestone in the history of the English film. The cast is equally as great as that of the Fox Picture of the year "Cavalcade."

Madeline Carroll, Herbert Marshall, Conrad Vedit, Gerald Du Maurice, Edmund Gwenn, Donald Calthrop, Eva Moore, Nigel Bruce, May Agate, Martha Hunt, George Merritt, Anthony Bushell.

Victor Saville directed this great British Picture.

The story is of a Belgian woman who is forced to nurse, German wounded, and approached by her Belgian compatriots is absorbed into the espionage organised in Belgium by the Allies. The drama is worked out in the conflict between her human feeling for the wounded men she nurses and the struggle in her soul, which is wishing for victory of the Allies. This is scheduled to be shown here very shortly.

"HOLD YOUR MAN"

Feminine Variety &
Steel Bars

The adage that steel bars do not make a prison is reflected in the modern women's reform school settings used in "Hold Your Man," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new co-starring vehicle for Jean Harlow and Clark Gable. Adapted from the modern institutions for correction in the East, the sets show the penal school as a place of helpful restraint rather than grim incarceration and punishment. There are no heavy bars, gratings or other prison reminders.

LIVE IN "BUNGALOWS"
Research, conducted by the studio for technical details on reform school construction, operation and corrective system, is said to have revealed many new innovations in the treatment and environment given inmates of these institutions. The dormitories are now "bungalows" for individual groups, with connecting recreation rooms, radio, piano and library. Visiting rooms of home-like aspect, also are provided for the reception of friends and relatives by prisoners who enjoy good conduct privileges.

Feminine vanity, it is said, plays a large part in the administration of many of the reform schools. The amount of "dolling up" permitted is said to depend upon the department of the individual inmates. The dormitory bungalows are equipped with enameled beds and every occupant has a table for personal effects. A dressing table accommodates the various groups.

The picture shows inside views of a reform school, depicting the operating of various classrooms for sewing and cooking. Other scenes are placed in the visiting rooms and chapel, where considerable dramatic action in the story takes place.

WEAR DENIM UNIFORMS

In these scenes, Miss Harlow discards the gorgeous clothes in which she first appears in the picture and wears the starched denim uniforms of the institution, making a sharp contrast. She is shown following the routine of the school and becomes embroiled in a furious battle of personalities with another girl, her rival for the affections of the man who caused their imprisonment.

Sam Wood directed "Hold Your Man" from an original story by Anita Loos. Included in the cast are Stuart Erwin, Dorothy Burgess, Muriel Kirkland, Garry Owen, Barbara Barondess, Paul Hurst, Elizabeth Patterson, Theresa Harris, Blanche Friderici and George Reed.

CAPS FOR THE CINEMA

The cinema gown for evening wear, with narrow and sophisticated-simple line, has to be accompanied by an evening cap, generally openwork and set to one side with peak, over the eye, and matching veil. Jackets are semi-fitting or even belted models and a favourite is the one made from broad black military braid and edged with narrow braid.

Narrow scarf tie at the neckline of day and evening jackets are popular and look effective.

Hair and gown to match is a new vogue. Mahogany velvet goes with henna tints of the deeper kind and silver-grey gowns with platinum coats are the wear for platinum blondes.

JESSIE MATTHEWS

Miss Matthews, one of C. B. Cochran's stars, has only made one former appearance in films, and her present picture is the first of a series in which she will star. A gifted dancer, blessed with a virile personality, a bewitching smile, and a pleasant singing voice, there is not a shadow of a doubt that she will be a box office attraction. Andra Chariot was the first to discover her possibilities, and starred her in one of his revues at the Prince of Wales Theatre. After this, Cochran engaged her for some of his super revues at the London Pavilion, and only quite recently she was starring at the Gaiety in "Hold My Hand," with terrific success. Critics are agreed that the personality that has made for her success behind the footlights "gets over the screen in unmistakable fashion."

Ends Contract

With the last shot of "The Way to Love," Maurice Chevalier brought to an end his five-year contract with Paramount.

The French star has announced that from now on he will freelance and be sole arbiter of the type of stories in which he will appear—stories of a meaty, down-to-earth nature. This decision was perhaps influenced by the unusual success of "A Bedtime Story," and the "rushes" of "The Way to Love," both simple, human stories. After completing a picture which will start in January, Chevalier will film a story of his own life written by a French author under the star's supervision.

Since Chevalier joined Paramount in 1928, he has starred in ten feature productions, increasing his "fan" following by many millions. Ann Dvorak plays opposite Maurice Chevalier in his final Paramount film, "The Way to Love."

produced "Runnin' Wild," with Sissle and Blake, "Manhattan Mary," a musical comedy with Ed Wynn, and "Flying High," another hit musical with Bert Lahr.

David Manners and Loretta Young in "The Devil's In Love" new production from Fox. Victor Jory has the featured role.

The Fascinating Story Of George White

Producer of 14 Broadway hits in a row... including the famous "George White's Scandals," "Manhattan Mary," "Flying High." Gave George Gershwin his first chance. Developed Ann Pennington, others. Introduced many famous dance steps.

The story of George White's rise to prominence in the theatrical world is a fascinating one. From Bowery saloons to Ziegfeld's roof is a long jump for an entertainer, but George White made it in a few whirlwind years. Dancing at Hammerstein's with Benny Ryan, entertaining at the Winter Garden while the runaway girls were resting between numbers, turkey trotting across the country in vaudeville, he limbered up for the hard routine that awaited him. While supporting Raymond Hitchcock in "The Red Widow" he took a fancy to the smallest girl in the chorus, a youngster whose dimpled knees were one day to become a national institution. When the time came to produce his first show, George White featured this little lady, Ann Pennington.

In 1919 George decided that his future lay in the Broadway production field. Equipped with the small life savings of $15,000, a good business mind, and a thorough knowledge of the contemporary musical theatre, he launched his producing career with the announcement of a forthcoming revue. And for 14 years he has been duplicating the success of that first venture.

That the first "Scandals" ever reached the lights of Broadway was due to the winning salesman-ship of the ex-hooper, whose savings were eaten up before rehearsals were well under way. He managed to borrow the needed sums, obtained scenery and costumes on credit, and rang up the curtain on a revue featuring Ann Pennington, Moran and Mack, Lou Holtz, Lester Allen, and himself. The music was by a then unknown young composer, George Gershwin. In his "Scandals," he has featured among others, Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, W. C. Fields, Winnie Lightner, Willie and Eugene Howard, Frances Williams, Harry Richman, Tom Patricola, Rose Perfect, Everett Marshall, Ray Bolger and Rudy Vallee. Also he

"THERE GOES THE BRIDE"

This is a Gainsborough picture distributed by Ideal Films Ltd. In this production the first in which Jessie Matthews appears, and critics predict she will be a sensation. "There Goes The Bride" tells the story of a runaway French bride who, rather than marry her pompous fiancé, departs for Paris, where en route she meets exciting adventure and real romance. Jessie who dominates the picture, is described as a sheer delight. Full of vivacity and fun, helped by catchy music, she dances her way through this merriest of comedies. There are two song hits in this film put over in irresistible fashion by Jessie Matthews. The music is furnished by the Savoy Orpheans "There Goes The Bride" is said to be equally as big as a success as "Sunshine Susie" for the voice of the London critic is unmistakable. This is to be shown at one of the local theatres at an early date.

"KING OF THE RITZ"*Jolly Film At The King's

Stanley Lupino, whose experience both on the stage and on the talkies is very considerable, has never, he himself admits, had such an enjoyable time as he spent when making an early sequence for the big new Gaumont musical, "King of the Ritz". He plays the part of the head porter at the magnificent Ritz-Royal Hotel. In this particular scene, he is shown "inspecting the troops" in the early morning, and very nice troops, too, for quiet apart from rank upon serried ranks of waiters, there were a hundred little beauties, blonde and brunette, in the guise of still-room maids and chamber-maids. And Stanley had to kiss them all!

The scene, too, was rehearsed eight times, whilst the technicians and other people on the set were growing greener and greener with envy. No wonder Stanley Lupino was heard to remark that his role in "King of the Ritz" was the finest part he has been cast for on the films.

"King of the Ritz" showing today at the King's Theatre, is a very gay affair, acted superbly by a notable cast which includes, besides Stanley Lupino, Betty Stockfeld, Hugh Wakefield, Gina Malo, Henry Kendall, and Gibb McLaughlin.

An added attraction is the specially written music composed by Raoul Moretti, who wrote the songs for "Bous Les Toits de Paris" and "Il Est C'harment."

"The Devil's In Love" is a fast action romance with a Sahara and Foreign Legion background. Victor Jory is the hero, and Daird Manners a new comer, but already a favourite, is also in one of the leading roles. Loretta Young is the heroine, and seems to grow more beautiful with each film. In this picture she is seen wearing some stunning gowns. Other well known stars are in the cast namely—Herbert Mundin, Eriell Chandler, Carrol Nash, Vivienne Osborne and C. Henry Gordon. Victor Jory is cast as a young surgeon, whose circumstances sent through an entire gaunt of social honour and dishonour. The plot is laid in Africa. Loretta Young furnishes the romance and is the means of restoring the young surgeon back to his station in life and raises him step by step. This is an adaptation of the Harry Hervey story by Howard Estabrook.

LEW AYRES AND GINGER ROGERS IN "DON'T BET ON LOVE" UNIVERSAL PRODUCTION

"DON'T BET ON LOVE"Showing At The Central

Players of unusual prominence, and many of them, will be seen in the Universal screen drama, "Don't Bet On Love" exciting story of the race tracks, starring Lew Ayres and showing at the Central Theatre to-day.

In the picture, which gives Ayres one of the greatest opportunities to display his acting ability since his memorable performance in "All Quiet on the Western Front" there are 14 roles of importance, outside of the starring part, and each one is played by an actor of great popularity on the screen.

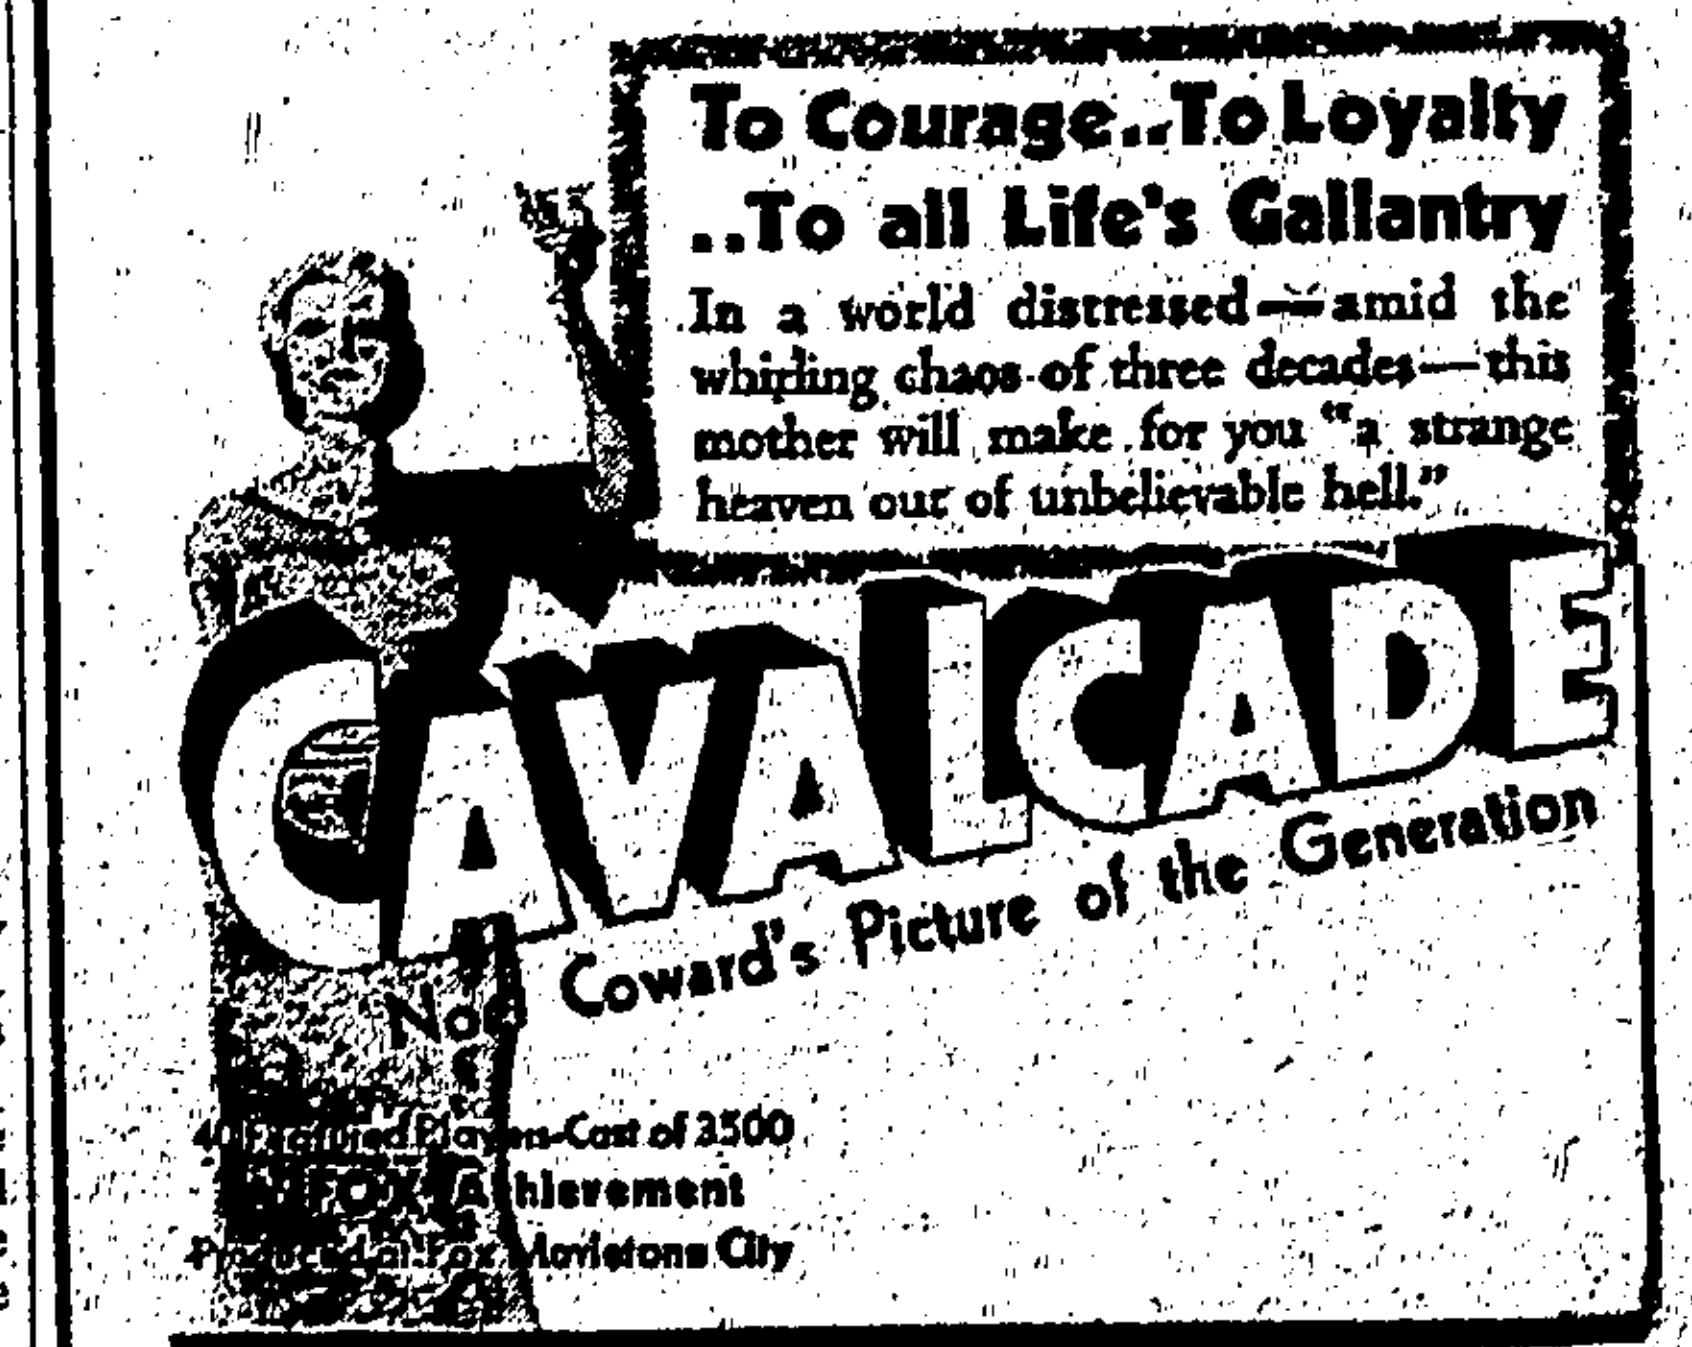

Ginger Rogers, sparkling red headed actress, who has recently gained unusual recognition by her work in "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933" appears opposite

Ayres as his sweetheart who tries to win him away from a gambling career.

"Don't Bet On Love" tells the story of a young plumber who has luck with the horses and tries to make it a career, against the wishes of his father and his sweetheart. After a meteoric career at the tracks, he finds himself a big time gambler, but lacks what he really wants, the love of his sweetheart. How circumstances come to a climax to effect real happiness gives the screenplay unusual dramatic interest. Murray Roth directed the film from his own story.

Loretta Young has the leading role in "The Devil's In Love" the new Fox production.

"FROM HELL TO HEAVEN"Racing, Gambling And Love

"From Hell to Heaven," which will commence to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre is a drama which peers into the intimate thoughts and secret lives of a group of people who make up one small section of a crowd of thousands attending the running of a famous Derby. Carole Lombard, Jack Oakie, David Manners and Adrienne Ames head the cast. The picture is from a story by Lawrence Hazard, well-known writer.

Eleven characters move through the action of "From Hell to Heaven." There is a young husband, who has embezzled money to provide his wife with luxuries, and is at the track attempting to win back enough to make up his short-ages. There is an old racehorse follower, who, after renouncing the ponies, finds himself compelled to return to attempt to win enough to pay doctor bills for his wife.

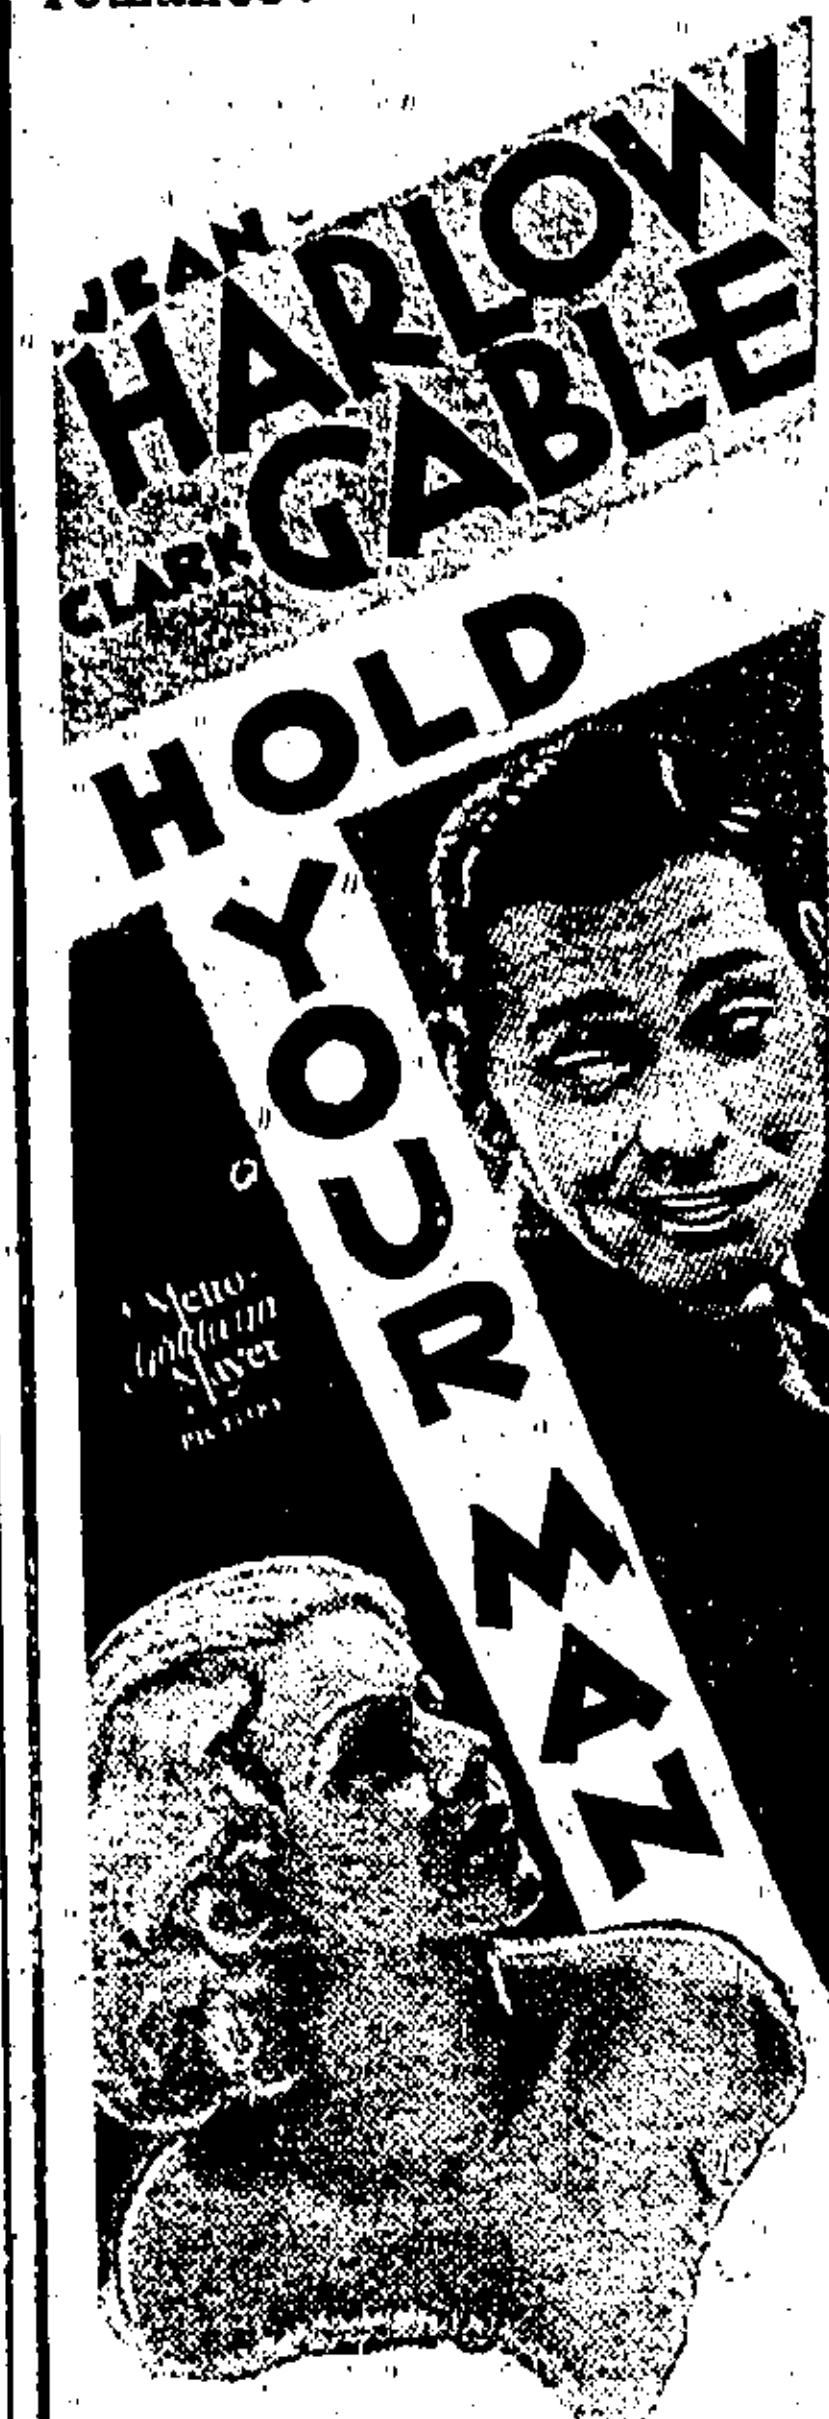

There is a jockey who has been fired by one stable for riding a slowly race, and is attempting to win back his reputation by riding for another stable. There is a paroled crook and his moll, and a girl with whom the crook intends to get even for a double-cross. There is a hotel clerk who refuses to bet, and his wife, who sinks their entire bankroll on a horse, hoping to win enough to permit her husband to buy a partnership in the hotel. There is a race-horse owner, whose entire fortune goes on the nose of his entry, and his daughter, in love with a jockey riding another horse.

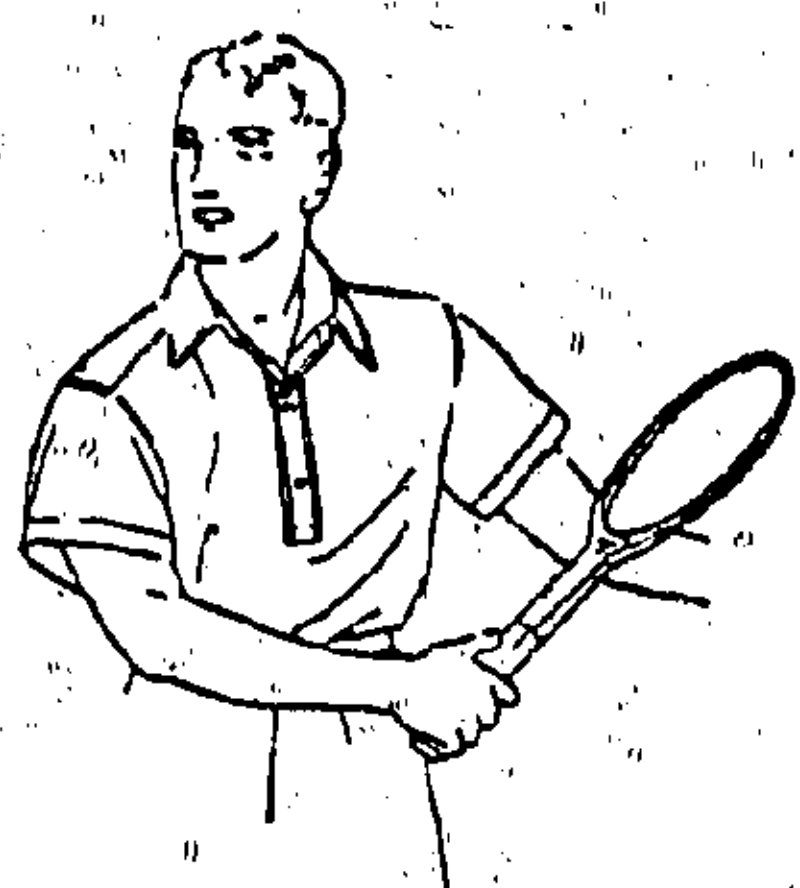

The lives, the hopes and the thoughts of these eleven are curiously tangled together as the time for the race draws near; and yet each stakes his entire career on a different horse. The picture reaches a powerful climax during the running of the race, when it is determined upon which fortune is about to smile.

conci. Luis Trenker and several others. The leading male role is portrayed by Trenker who has played it in three different versions—English, French and German, but with different supporting casts. Vilma Banky is back again after an absence of three years. She retired following her marriage to Rod La Roque. Luis Trenker as the "Rebel" has a price on his head, but his Secret Three ever faithful, and on the alert protect him. There is a brilliant military ball, gorgeous gowns and beautiful women all lend enchantment to this powerful drama. A lovely girl beckoned him to her arms—"The Rebel" answered a great call—TO DUTY AND TO DEATH. This is showing at the King's Theatre on the 29th.

Loretta Young has the leading role in "The Devil's In Love" the new Fox production.

ECHOES OF 1859

52 - Display Of Editorial
"Friendliness"

July 6, 1859.

Our contemporary of the Register must surely have taken leave of the little sense he had. We met him under the portico of the Court House on Friday last, (when he had been some time waiting for us) and he told us that he did not wish to speak to us again, because of the lies we had been telling about him. We told him that it was quite contrary to our wish to speak falsely about him or any one else, but that we were ready to afford him the fullest satisfaction—that if he would point out what he complained of, we should either give up our authority or retract what we had stated. We suggested that he should do so in writing which he promised to do. Judge of our surprise at finding in his issue of Saturday, a threat or a hint that he would denounce us as the Lord knows what!

We certainly should very much like to know the particulars of the alleged lies, in order that we may set ourselves right with the public. If our contemporary selects the end of a quarrel for the commencement, we are not to be blamed for what may happen—but we should think that his conduct would induce the belief that the lie does no rest with us—decidedly not.

A tangible and speedy mode has been offered our contemporary for testing our veracity, he promised to avail of it, but instead of doing so he indulges in vituperation, evincing signs of wrath and petu-

lence, less likely to be excited by falsehood than by truth.

As for his arguments about the Coolie Slave Trade, they are complete trash. Bernardino very likely did give such information as led to the publication of two Chinese kidnappers—nothing more likely—but when and where were any Portuguese punished for the crime?

We knew that our contemporary was acquainted with the Barracoon people at Macao, but we had no idea that it went the length of living in one of them for three months. We tell our contemporary again that so long as the contracts obtained credence, coolies could be had readily enough. It was only last season that the Chinese became convinced of the fallacy of the contracts and refused to go. Then kidnapping began. Our contemporary's residence in a barracoon, must have been anterior to this.

ANNUAL BROWNIE RALLY AND TOTEM COMPETITION

Lady Peel Is Presented With Special Programme

The Annual Brownie Rally was held at the Sandilands Hut yesterday afternoon before a large group of interested spectators, mostly mothers of the various children present. Proceedings began with the arrival of Lady Peel at 3.15. She was received by the Acting Colony Commissioner, Mrs. W. J. Anderson, and a Guard of Honour composed of all the assembled Brownies. On taking her seat, Lady Peel was presented with a special programme designed and made by a member of the 3rd Hongkong Pack.

The first item was a percussion band concert by Brownies of the 3rd Hongkong Pack, under the conductorship of Miss Cotton, headmistress of the Quarry Bay School. This was such a success that it was encored repeatedly. Then the 1st Hongkong (Peak) Pack, under Miss Honor Hancock, played two of the Brownie games, one an exhibition of ball-catching that was striking in its efficiency. Next we had a display of Ambulance work by the 5th Hongkong Pack, the Bellisio School, under Miss G. Choe. This was most amusing, as the "nurses" were dressed in caps and aprons of white paper and seemed very life-like. Injuries ranging from burns to broken arms were dealt with, and everyday accidents, the treatment of which should be common knowledge, were demonstrated. This was followed by more games, this time played by the 1st Kowloon under Miss Gardiner. A most interesting fire drill display was the next item. Brownies of the 2nd Kowloon undressed (as far as hats and ties!) and went to bed; Mrs. Ritchie, Brown Owl, blew the whistle, and while some of the Brownies dealt with the injured others rushed for fire-fighting apparatus and put out the blaze.

The piece de resistance was a fairy tale told and acted by the 2nd Hongkong (Garrison) Pack—the Babes in the Wood as it would have happened if there had been Brownies in those days. This was extremely good, and the Brown Owl, Mrs. Bishop, and the children are to be congratulated on the ease and clearness with which the lines were delivered. The programme was brought to a close with a few more items by the Percussion Band, and the Grand Howl.

After tea the Commissioner made the following speech:

Lady Peel, Ladies and Gentlemen, Guiders and Brownies, before announcing the Totem Competition results and asking Lady Peel to present the Totem to the winning Pack, I want to say how much we all appreciate the presence of our President, Lady Peel. We offer her our heartfelt thanks for so graciously giving us a whole afternoon of her very valuable time.

We are very glad to welcome so many mothers and friends interested in Guiding, and hope that the short display by the Brownies this afternoon will give some idea of their Pack work.

Our heartfelt thanks are also due to Mrs. Buckwell and Miss Tso, who have given so much time and thought to the Competition. Every Pack has been visited by the examiners and the Totem, competed for annually, is to be presented to the best all-round Pack. Our thanks are also due to Mrs. Borrett and members of the Executive Committee for their very kind help and interest in the Guide movement.

I have much pleasure in announcing that the 2nd Hongkong is the winning Pack and the 5th Hongkong are the runners up. The 3rd Hongkong, whose management was of an exceptionally high standard, was a close third the total marks gained being within two points of the winners, and they are therefore highly commended. It is interesting to note that the winning Pack were fifth last year, showing the rapid strides made. The runners up were last year's winners.

I will now ask Lady Peel to present the Totem.

Lady Peel thereupon handed the Totem to three Brownies of the winning Pack, while the runners up received a picture.

Among those present were:—Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Borrett, Mrs. Grist, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Alabaster, Mrs. Dumb, Mrs. Bousfield, Mrs. Lander, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Macfadyen, Miss Skinner, Mrs. Kemble, Mrs. Lo, Mrs. Raikes, Mrs. Carrington Sykes, Mrs. Hensen, Mrs. Way, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Greenhill, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Martel Hall, Mrs. Digby, Mrs. Ensor, Mrs. Sorby, Mrs. Ralston, Mrs. Ralston, Mrs. Carrie, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Newhouse, Mrs. Purves, Mrs. Weight, Mrs. Langston, Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Deacon, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Sisk, Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Handy, Mrs. Haine, Mrs. Merriman, and Mrs. Turney.

The catering was in the hands of Messrs. Lane, Crawford.

SOUTH AFRICAN WILD FLOWERS

Lord Clarendon, the Governor-General of South Africa, has, I see, contributed a foreword to the illustrated souvenir brochure which has been prepared in connection with the exhibition of South African wild flowers.

The last consignment of twenty-five cases is due to arrive on the Windsor Castle to-day, and Princess Alice will open the exhibition at the Horticultural Hall.

The flowers, the stalks of which were dipped in paraffin wax, have brought over in a special chamber in the liner, kept at 43 degrees. They include some beautiful examples of the Cape flora, which is one of the richest in the world.

Indeed, they may well do much to fulfil the hope expressed by Lord Clarendon that visitors to

GROWTH OF KWANGSI PROVINCE

Dr. Geo. W. Leavell
at the Rotary Club

WONDERFUL MUSEUM AT NANNING

A very interesting talk on the growth and development of Kwangsi province during the past twenty-one years was given by Dr. Geo. W. Leavell at the Rotary Club yesterday, when Mr. T. B. Wilson presided over the Club's weekly luncheon.

Dr. Leavell said that recently he took a trip by motor around the province, commencing from Wuchow. The latter was a city of 100,000 people, and it supplied Hongkong with most of its cattle, chickens, eggs, and pigs. He had been twenty-one years in Kwangsi and when he first arrived Kwangsi had no running water, no electric lights, but a few steamers called from Hongkong at irregular intervals. To-day, the largest electric plant in the two Kwang provinces was installed in Wuchow and the city's water plant was the best in South China. The population had an adequate supply of filtered water.

There were no automobile roads and no railroad in Kwangsi twenty-one years ago, but to-day there were miles and miles of motor highway and when Dr. Leavell left on holiday three weeks ago it was by motor-car.

Speaking of the visit he had paid to the various cities of Kwangsi, Dr. Leavell said that Nanning was a booming city. The people of Hongkong might find opportunities of doing business there. It had roads extending to Pakhoi and Kwaichow.

Nanning had a museum put up by the Government showing the products of the province. The museum was a revelation to the visitor and showed a long range of products from gold and silver ores to rice and cotton. It was worth a trip to Nanning to see this museum and its exhibits alone.

Then there was an alcohol factory at Luichow which could produce 95 per cent pure alcohol. A sugar refinery, has been planned, the sugar to be extracted from sugar canes, the residue of which could be used in the paper making industry, a factory for which is also due to be put up.

In the whole trip, from Wuchow round the province to Kweilin, covering 11,000 miles, Dr. Leavell had no trouble whatever. He travelled by a Ford car, and the roads were so good that they had no breakdowns and were able to catch every ferry, etc. Moreover there was no search by the authorities and no hold-up by the bandits, and the trip was in its way quite wonderful. Dr. Leavell recommended Hongkong residents to visit Kwangsi, and added that the provincial officials welcomed visitors.

Dr. Leavell told the audience of the trouble he had had in putting up the new St. Mary's Memorial Hospital. When he first arrived at Wuchow there was a place by the river called a hospital. The place was often flooded and was unsuitable. Thanks to the encouragement of a Hongkong merchant (Mr. George Banker) the nucleus of a fund for the new building was established and the new hospital was put up as funds were received. To-day it has 123 beds and was clear of debt and it was, indeed, a very fine affair.

Dr. Leavell concluded his address by telling Rotarians the story of the Good Samaritan in the Bible and said that the aims of Rotary reminded him of the motto "Mine is Thine" in that story. The spirit of Rotary was altruism, unselfishness and good work among men. "Carry on the good work," said Dr. Leavell, "and exemplify the true philosophy of life."

In thanking the speaker, Dr. Li Shu Fan, speaking on behalf of the Rotary Club, said that Dr. Leavell was a fine example of the vast army of workers in China who quietly and unobtrusively were doing good for the people of China. They were helping the people to lessen the incidence of disease. He felt convinced that an address such as the one just delivered would rouse people to go and see Kwangsi. He thanked the speaker very heartily for his address.

WELCOMED BACK.

Rotarian P. S. Cassidy and Rotarian W. H. Bell were welcomed back to the Club. It was announced that Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington had resigned.

An apparently insane man named Chan Hing-wan, leaped from the top deck of a tram at Quarry Bay on Monday and hurt himself badly. He was later removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

The exhibition may be inspired to go further "in search of South Africa" in order to see the flowers "in their natural surroundings and under their own blue skies."

TO SAVE WORLD PROGRESS FROM THE SLOUGH OF DESPOND

Broadcast Speech By British Trade Commissioner

"SOMETHING GREATER THAN MATERIAL GAIN"

"There is something far better and greater than merely material gain, which will come from a settled and wisely developed China, and that is a better understanding between China and the rest of the world. That is what we must look towards in the years ahead," said Mr. G. C. Pelham, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner in the cause of a broadcast speech from Z.B.W., last evening.

The speaker gave a review of world trade and devoted a greater part of his address to trade in China in particular, concluding with an invitation to business men in the Colony and South China to make any suggestions to him that may be the cause of bringing China into closer and more friendly contact with Great Britain.

CHINA AS A WORLD MARKET

Mr. Pelham said—

"It is I think, generally conceded that the aim of human kind is happiness and that we all look forward with more or less optimism to an ideal era of peace and prosperity. Each outlook is, however, tinged by circumstance, and I think that our immediate idea of contribution towards the golden age is a revival of trade and industry to the end that all man shall be occupied in rendering services one to the other and that no man willing to work shall lack for the ordinary amenities of life."

"The difficulties which must be overcome before this golden age is reached are very great and world-wide. In this modern world no country is independent of another and this has been made specially evident in the economic difficulties which have arisen during the last five years, as a legacy of the Great War."

"On examination of the world's trade position a check in the process of depression may be perceived about the middle of 1932. Unfortunately the upward tendency has been temporarily checked by great depression in the United States and we now closely watch events in that country in the hope that the efforts being made for her industrial stabilisation will meet with success and generally accelerate world progress out of the slough of despond."

Britain's Position.

"In this rather uncertain economic world, Great Britain has now for the past two years accomplished a very fine achievement and she is sound, safe and solvent. Industrial production has actually increased, perhaps not much, but it has been an increase and not the decrease which has been common throughout the world. In 1932 Great Britain reduced her adverse balance of trade by £119,000,000 and this process of reduction continues."

"Taking into account the invisible trade, our net adverse balance in 1932 was only £59,000,000 or about half of that for the previous year. While we may be proud of this example which the old country has set, we have no cause whatever to consider that we may now ease the strain or that the first push-taking us from inertia to motion having been achieved, acceleration will be automatic."

"While the Old Country is putting her house in order—by this I mean that apart from the reform of public finance, the organisation of industry and commerce is being greatly improved—those who are abroad for the purpose of marketing United Kingdom goods must very greatly renew their efforts to organise sales methods on an economic basis. In these days of intense competition it is the most highly organised combination of producer and salesman maintaining the most cordial and close contact with the foreign market concerned which will be of the greatest benefit both to the country of origin of the goods and the country which consumes those goods."

China As World Market.

"China is undergoing a very difficult period. She is a country which, having a very ancient civilisation, has but lately begun to develop in the modern sense, and in doing so she has suffered and still does suffer under considerable internal handicaps and disabilities. The great potentialities of China as a market for the goods of other countries are often spoken of but this is only one side of the question. In order that China may afford the goods of other countries the products of China must receive very serious consideration. They must be increased both in quantity and quality so that they may pay for the imported goods. To this end China needs, on her part, to work steadily for the creation of security, and on our part assistance and guidance in the development of communications and industries in this country."

"There can be no question of established educational schemes preceding industrial and other development. The two must be automatically interdependent. An impetus to the development of communications and industries will create a further need for the education of people to engage in the new activities, but this need will be fulfilled through an increasing purchasing power and consequent ability of an increasing number of the people to spare time and money for the purpose of study. Love of learning has been inherent in the Chinese race from ancient times and education is 'limited only' by the present economic necessity of the masses to toil assiduously for small reward which provides but the barest of food and shelter and leaves no surplus for cultural or educational pursuits."

"In spite of the fact that the value of the important trade of China has increased five-fold during the last thirty years, it is still small and difficult owing largely to insecurity within the country. In 1932 30 per cent. of these imports were comprised of common food stuffs most of which could and should be produced in a country whose economic position must closely be based on her agriculture and whose purchasing power should be available for use in further development and equipment."

Plans for the Future.

"The position is perhaps more clearly shown by figures:—
"In the first six months of 1932 imports into China amounted to £59,000,000 while exports abroad were only £29,000,000. In the first six months of 1933 imports had decreased to £48,000,000 and exports to £18,000,000. In each case the adverse balance was £30,000,000."

"It is obvious that this rapidly declining trend must be checked. While realisation of truth alone will put nothing right, there is happily reason to believe that the responsible elements in China are determined to make a march forward and that the Government are sincere and determined in their plans for the pacification and economic reconstruction of the country. Recently plans have been evolved to increase the production of staple goods and enhanced industrial activity. Some of these plans are in process of being carried out. There is clearly a desire on the part of China to put herself in the position of supplying her own need of common consumable goods. Considerable effort in that direction is now becoming manifest and it seems clear that the future import market of China will be different from that of to-day and will consist far more of capital goods than of consumable goods."

"As an indication of the possibilities in this future market I would merely state that in a very poor year, 1932:
£3,300,000 of machinery was imported
£1,800,000 of vehicles and vessels were imported
£8,000,000 of iron and steel goods imported

Britain Holds Her Own.

"From one point of view a very bright spot in the trade of China last year was the maintenance of the value of imports into China from Great Britain. There was no decline from 1931 as in both years the figure stood at H.K. $119,000,000. The import trade of our chief competitors declined. Indeed the United Kingdom share in 1932 of the import trade showed a substantial increase, rising from 84 per cent. of the total imports in 1931 to 111 per cent. in 1932. Of the manufactured goods imported into China in 1932 the United Kingdom supplied 24 per cent."

"There is no gain-saying that China has been able to stand considerable shocks and still come up smiling. On an examination of all the conditions obtaining over the last two years with disasters, floods, and banditry, it would be strange indeed if there had not been some decline in trade and it is surely a matter for congratulation that, while by no means the decline has not been even more serious. There is, I think, much reason to have faith in the future not only of this country but of the world. I have never known pessimism to achieve any good result. It is too easy to sit back and say that everything is going to the dogs, but if we make, in association with others, a determined effort towards steady and sure progress—and we can play that part so well if we have a mind to—we shall not only benefit in co-operation with China, but there must be a benefit to all peoples. There is something far better and greater than merely material gain, which will come from a settled and wisely developed China, and that is a better understanding between China and the rest of the world. That is what we must look towards in the years ahead."

A Great Gateway.

"It is not possible in a short talk of this nature to go into details and it is always possible greatly to criticise such utterances as that which I have just made. My object and effort is to be constructive—to avoid the growth of grass where no grass should be—and need I say that I shall much appreciate communication of points of view from my listeners, and that I shall be only too pleased to meet and talk with any who are seriously minded in the endeavour to make of our trade relations with China a lasting benefit to both countries?"

"As I have resided in Hong Kong for only a very short period it does not become me to attempt to review the trade of South China at the present juncture. I cannot go even so far as the gentleman who, having spent a few days in Shanghai, was asked if he would write a book on China. He replied that, alas! he had only been four days in the country and that to write a book would require a journey of at least a fortnight!"

"Hong Kong is a great gateway of trade flowing into and out of China. My duty lies in connection with the United Kingdom share of this trade and when required, the shares obtained by otherwise unrepresented parts of the British Empire. I shall therefore be very pleased at any time to meet business men and others interested in the trade and industry of China and am very willing to receive advice or suggestions tending to further the interests of Sino-British Commercial intercourse."

"I am to endeavour not only to interpret British business and announce the excellence of British goods to our Chinese friends, but also to interpret Commercial China to our own people. To ensure any measure of success I need friendly and close contact with the business world of Hong Kong and of South China and from the very cordial reception which I have already enjoyed I am sure that this need will be fulfilled."

SWATOW NOTES Run On Kwangtung Provincial Bank

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, Nov. 19.
The Kwangtung Provincial Bank, situated in the heart of Seng Ping Road, was to-day the scene of very great and unusual excitement owing to the rush to exchange banknotes issued by this bank for silver, so much so that bus traffic was interrupted on account of the eager crowds standing in the middle of the road awaiting their turn.

It was only this early morning that the notes of the bank were repudiated everywhere, but it is impossible to discover the reason for that panic as yet. The only reason apparently is because the notes were rejected and the general public getting into a panic sought to satisfy themselves of their own positions. It is surprising that to-day, Sunday, should be treated as an ordinary working day.

Last night, I hear, "rumours" were in circulation that the Head office had failed, and others attributed the panic to political reasons. Of course, vernacular newspapers would not dare to publish the facts even if they knew.

One amazing departure from the ordinary daily business this morning was that all the gold and silversmith shops, big stores and money-changers had their doors closed and barred, the reasons for which were obvious. In the event of purchases the respective managements could not have refused to accept the K. P. Banknotes if tendered, the bank being under government control. On the other hand, by accepting such notes, great risks were being incurred. Therefore it was thought best to suspend operations temporarily.

However in the forenoon the K. P. Bank started to redeem its notes and afterwards the jewellery shops, money-exchanges, etc., also opened their doors for business. Towards the afternoon a large transaction were done by the money-changers, who were prepared to buy the notes at from 5 to 8 per cent. discount—the usual profiteering.

Up till a late hour to-day the bank was still meeting the rush, and I am told, well over a million dollars worth of notes have been redeemed.

SIX YEARS AT RE-TRIAL

Robber Unanimously Found "Guilty"

The re-trial of a Chinese for complicity in a robbery at a shop in Des Voeux Road West was concluded before Mr. Justice Lindsell yesterday, when the jury brought in a unanimous verdict of "Guilty."

Addressing the prisoner, his Lordship said:—"The robbery in which you have taken a leading part is a particularly vicious one. It is made more vicious by the fact that you suborned one of the foks of the shop which you planned to rob, and which you successfully robbed. The sentence of this Court is that you go to prison with hard labour for six years."

[At the previous trial before the Chief Justice, the jury failed to agree and were discharged.]

Arrangements have been completed for a dance to be held in the Garrison Lecture Hall on Saturday evening under the auspices of the crew of H.M.S. Tamar. An enjoyable programme has been arranged and a large attendance is expected.

BANKER GETS TWO MONTHS False Affirmation Sworn

Sentence of two month's imprisonment without hard labour was, yesterday passed by the Chief Justice at the Criminal Session on Kwan Wai Chow, a banker of 183 Queen's Road, Central, who had pleaded guilty to "perjury."

In passing sentence his Lordship said that it would impress prisoner with the gravity of the offence, and would serve as a deterrent to other people.

The charge of perjury was brought by Leung Fung-shi, widow of a son of Leung Kin, whose death had been sworn as occurring in 1927 when it actually took place in 1916. The false date enabled the administrator, Leung Yueh-chi, another son, to avoid a considerable payment of duty which, it was disclosed to-day, had not yet been made good.

Mr. Fraser said that the attitude of the Crown towards this prosecution had changed in consequence of enquiries made since the previous day, and he was not now able to support his friend's plea for leniency. The case was not, as he had been instructed, connected with another case where full disclosure and settlement had been made and where the Crown would not have instituted criminal proceedings.

This misapprehension was not the fault of anyone concerned in the present hearing.

The facts of the present case only come to the knowledge of law officers of the Crown when prisoner was committed from the Magistracy.

THE DIFFERENCE IN DUTIES

It was discovered that the duty payable in 1928, on the death of 12 years previously of Leung Kin, amounted to $12,100, whereas the only payment made on the estate was $1,900 which was the duty payable if the death had occurred in 1927.

There was no suggestion that accused had derived and personal benefit from the false affirmation.

When Leung Kin died in 1916, he was connected with the Lai On Firm and the Sui Tak Bank, his share in the latter being valued at $68,498. In 1928 it was worth $112,000. From 1921 onwards the bank gave credit in Leung Kin's name to the Lai On Firm to the extent of $51,560 in three promissory notes, and it must be assumed that the manager of the bank was ignorant of Leung Kin's death or acted with full knowledge.

In fairness to accused, said Mr. Fraser, it should be pointed out that there may have been some question of the solvency of the Lai On firm in 1921, but, as far as was known, there was no such question in 1916, and Leung Kin's share in the bank must be assessed at its then value.

If Leung Yueh-chi, who obtained letters of administration to the estate, could be found, he should be in the dock beside accused.

ALLOWANCE STOPPED

The prosecutrix in this case came to Hongkong to nurse her father-in-law in 1916. He died at 30, New Market Street. Later, she returned to the country and there lived on an allowance of $50 a month paid to her through the Sang Lee Bank by Leung Yueh-chi who was the manager. When the bank closed down, the allowance stopped, and Leung disappeared. A warrant was issued for his arrest but he had not yet been found.

Meanwhile accused, who had been in the country, returned to Hongkong in September of this year and was arrested.

The attitude of the prosecutrix was that she had been deprived of her maintenance, and she bore a grudge against all who had had a hand in bringing about this state of affairs.

NO FRAUD

Mr. McNeill said he was glad that the question of settlement had been cleared up. It was not a case of attempting to help a friend, and, while not belittling the offence of perjury, he would remind his Lordship that in cases of perjury which occurred in Court, the law decided which should be the subject of prosecution and which not. He suggested that had the law been the sole judge in this case instead of a woman disappointed of her claims accused would not have been prosecuted.

Sentence was passed as stated above, and Mr. McNeill then asked for and was granted a Certificate for leave to appeal.

Members of the European Y.M.C.A. will stage a hike to Kowloon Peak on Saturday. The expedition will leave the Y.M.C.A. at 2.30 p.m. and invitation has been extended to service men to attend.

AMERICA AND RUSSIA

Owing to its strong party politics, the foreign policy of the United States during the past decade has undergone many vicissitudes, having a chameleon like propensity for the changing of its complexion. Of these changes perhaps none has been more of a volte face than their recognition of the Soviet Government, when one recalls their adamant attitude towards Soviet Russia within quite recent memory, instigated by a fear of a general Soviet "dumping" of goods and raw material produced by sweated labour that has been reduced to a standard of living incompatible with that considered as a basis of common existence by American citizens. The United States has been less unbending in their front against the Soviet than Great Britain even, who, while firm on questions of propaganda and political sabotage, has always been willing to enter into trade agreements with them. That Mr. Roosevelt has broken away from one of the platforms of foreign policy which his predecessors have been unanimous in endorsing, makes one curious to consider the forces at work and the motives underlying the new departure as the agreement concluded on November 17 to enter into negotiations and exchange ambassadors.

We cannot doubt that, in the relations about to be resumed, there is a certain political significance. In the eventuality of any Japanese contretemps it would add distinctly to Russia's confidence to know that she might count on economic support from the United States. On the other hand, Russia would doubtless be a trump card in the hands of the United States to play off against Japan, though not for a moment would she allow herself to be drawn into any Russo-Japanese embroglio, apart from economic assistance, which would rebound beneficially. In spite of the many groundless assertions to the contrary, actual conflict between Japan and the United States is practically out of the question, whereas Russo-Japanese border jealousies will always loom as one of the world's powder barrels. The appointment by the Soviet of M. Troianovsky, their plenipotentiary at Tokyo during Japan's penetration of Manchuria, as Soviet Ambassador to Washington, is an indication of Russian thought in this connection, but we may take it that the United States has entered into the agreement more from an economic angle.

In reaching out his hand to Soviet Russia, Mr. Roosevelt may be seeking any port in a storm and be pinning his hopes on a stimulus to his country's trade. His inflation programme indicates the difficulty of his economic position, and at a time like the present no cure can be admitted. The American Manufacturers' Association predict that, given proper guarantees, the trade between the two nations may reach as much as $150,000,000, of which $80,000,000 would be raw cotton and cotton textiles, both major items in her trade. The only drawback to an otherwise glowing report by the A.M.A. on the trading prospects is their omission to take into full consideration Russian capacity for unloading her own raw materials; nor has the question of wheat been dwelt upon.

In concluding this agreement the United States and the Soviet may be likened to two persons who enter into marriage, each hoping to obtain distinct advantages through the wealth and connections of the other party, only to find later that each had been misled.

ATTEMPT TO KILL
WAKATSUKI

Would-be Assassin
Arrested

Tokyo, November 21.

An unsuccessful attempt was made this morning on the life of Baron Wakatsuki, President of the Minseito Party, a former Premier and chief Japanese delegate to the London Naval Conference.

Returning to Tokyo after having conducted a political campaign, Baron Wakatsuki was stepping from his train when a youth named Susumu Noguchi, well-known in Japan as a welter-weight boxer, forced his way through the crowd to the diplomat's party.

Wielding a dagger, the youth attempted to stab Baron Wakatsuki, but quick police action led to his capture before he was able to reach his intended victim.

Another youth, who followed Noguchi's mad rush to the platform, escaped when his companion was taken into custody.

It is believed that the assault is connected with the recent reactionary outbursts against the London Treaty.—Reuter.

SECOND MAN CAUGHT

Later.
Haruo Matsui, the assailant, who escaped from the railway station after the failure of the attempt on Baron Wakatsuki, was later this morning caught loitering outside the residence of the ex-Premier.

He was apparently intending to make a second attempt and was taken into custody.

INDEPENDENT FLOTTERS?

Both assailants are members of a reactionary organisation, though Noguchi asserts that he acted independently, owing to his indignation against the Naval Treaty aroused by the recent court-martial of naval cadets.

It is revealed that both Noguchi and Matsui recently bought short-swords for the purpose of assassinating Baron Wakatsuki.—Reuter.

SIR M. LAMPSON
FETED

British Minister's Popularity With
The Chinese

Peking, November 16.

The immense personal popularity of Sir Miles Lampson with the Chinese people was demonstrated yesterday afternoon, when more than 200 persons, including the two highest political and military leaders of North China (Generals Huang Fu and Ho Ying Ching), gathered at the Western Returned Students Club to bid farewell to the retiring British Minister to China, who is to leave Peking on December 4 on his way to Egypt to assume his new post as High Commissioner. The affair was organised under the auspices of the chancellors of the two leading Government universities, Peking and Tsing Hua, the hosts for the occasion including Dr. and Mrs. Chiang Men Lin, Mr. and Mrs. Mei Yi Chi, and Dr. Hu Shih.

Dr. Hu Shih paid a warm tribute to the work of Sir Miles Lampson during the last seven years. Nowadays, he said, people did not believe in miracles, but sometimes miracles did happen. He was in London when Sir Miles Lampson was appointed Minister to China, at which time the relations between China and Britain were strained almost to breaking-point. Indeed, no one believed or dared to believe that the new Minister would be able to restore the then estranged relations to anything like normal cordiality, but Sir Miles had succeeded in accomplishing what was believed impossible. This was a great miracle because Sir Miles had accomplished it in the short space of less than seven years.

Positive British Interest.
Dr. T. F. Tsiang, after outlining the achievements of Sir Miles in China during the last seven years, continued:

"Sir Miles has shown us that he regards an independent, strong, and prosperous China not as a danger to Britain, but as a positive British interest and is willing to lend his aid. Can there be a better proof than this of his friendship for China?"

"It is seldom that we take pride in any chapter of our diplomatic history, more seldom still for the citizens of this country to come together as we have done 'this afternoon to pay a tribute to a departing Minister of a foreign country. Sir, permit me to assure you that we regard you as our true friend. Although we regret that you will soon leave us, you will leave with us this precious memory of friendship. Our best wishes go with you in your next field of achievement."

Minister's Reply.
Responding, Sir Miles said that he was profoundly moved by the speeches of Dr. Hu and Dr. Tsiang and was deeply sensible of the honour which had been done him in inviting him to the gathering. He went on to say that he did not possess the attributes of a miracle-worker and that he had been fortunate enough to come to China in 1926 at the psychological moment when the misunderstanding between the two countries had reached its height and the wave

WHOLE WORLD SHAKES!

Seismologists
Puzzled

London, November 21.

An earthquake of considerable magnitude the epicentre of which is variously stated to have been in the Black sea or Caspian sea, on the 140th degree longitude, is puzzling seismologists and recorded 11.28 p.m. yesterday. The severity is given evidence by the fact that there was a maximum swing of the seismograph needle during its sixty minutes recording in London of ten inches.

A West Bromwich seismologist gives the opinion, the earthquake was very near and states that last night, the whole world was shaking.

Bucharest does not confirm the earthquake reports in the Black sea area.

Sydney reports shocks, at the same time estimating the locality on a line running between New Guinea and Japan.

Victoria, British Columbia, describes the earthquake as of tremendous proportions, the greatest on record with an epicentre at a distance of about 2,300 miles, probably in Mexico or Siberia.—Reuter.

FEAR OF DISSENSION

NEW HIGHWAY IN KWANGTUNG

Connecting Swatow & Cheung Muk Tau

Canton, Nov. 21.

Another milestone in construction progress of Kwangtung was recorded to-day when the highway department of the East Rehabilitation District made the formal opening of the long highway connecting Swatow to Cheung Muk Tau on the Canton-Kowloon Railway thence by train to Canton.

The Swatow-Cheung Muk Tau highway is one of the longest in the province, being 280 miles in length. Important towns linked by this highway are Chao Yang, Po Ning, Wai Loy, Luk Fong and Wai Chow. General Chen Chai Tong, Commander-in-Chief of the First Group Army, has ordered six large motor buses to maintain regular service between the two termini.

After leaving Swatow at 6 o'clock in the morning, a bus will reach Cheung Muk Tau in the afternoon in time to catch the express from Kowloon to Canton. Travellers from Canton take the train first and then the bus at Cheung Muk Tau. The railway station there has been enlarged and reconstructed to cope with the increasing traffic.

People in East Kwangtung districts are further relieved by the order of General Chen Chai Tong that 120 miscellaneous taxes in Lim Kong and 29 other counties are to be abolished in order to lighten the burden of the people.

CHEN MING SHU LEADS NEW FUKIEN PARTY

Master Mind In Revolutionary Movement

PRESENT MOVE AIMED AT OVERTHROW OF CHIANG

GEN. HO APPEALS TO MILITARY LEADERS

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

Canton, November 21. Mr. Eugene Chen, the Chairman of Foreign Affairs Committee of the new People's Revolutionary Government, issued to-day a statement of foreign policy of the new Government in Fukien, which is expected to reach the newspapers in Canton and Hong Kong sometime this afternoon or to-night. It was reliably learned here this afternoon.

The statement will set forth the policy of the Fukien Government, which is said to have informed the Powers that the so-called unequal treaties should be abolished and that complete tariff autonomy should be accomplished.

Other members of the new Government are as follows: President of the People's Revolutionary Government, General Li Chai Hsin. Chairman of Political Affairs Committee, General Chen Ming Shu. Chairman of Foreign Affairs Committee, Mr. Eugene Chen (Chen Yu Jen). Chairman of Finance Committee, Mr. Hsu Shih Ching. Chairman of Educational Committee, Mr. Chang Pak Kwan. Chairman of Military Committee, General Tsai Ting Kai.

"FATHER" OF 19TH ROUTE ARMY

General Chen Ming Shu, former Chairman of Kwangtung Provincial Government and "father" of the 19th Route Army, is the master mind in the "new movement" in Fukien. General Li Chai Hsin is well-known as an able administrator of Kwangtung with military and political talents and is well remembered for paving the present close Canton-Hong Kong relations.

General Tsai Ting Kai, Officer Commanding the 19th Route Army and now concurrently Chairman of the Military Committee, is internationally known for his part in the Shanghai war. He attributed his retreat to Soochow to the lack of effective support and sufficient reinforcements from the Nanking military authorities.

CANTON TO "WAIT AND SEE."

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, November 21. Members of the South-West Political Council, the highest political organ here, held the usual Tuesday meeting this morning to discuss the new independent government in Fukien. It is understood that Canton will adopt a nonchalant attitude for the present, as the Fukien movement is aimed primarily against the Nanking Government in general and General Kai Shek Kai Shek in particular.

Kuomintang leaders such as Hsu Fu Chen, Chow Lu, Teng Chak Yeh, Hu Han Min and others expressed satisfaction at the stand against Nanking on account of its Japanese policy, because they themselves have advocated the same attitude for the past two years. However, these officials are disappointed that Fukien has repudiated the Kuomintang as a basis of the new government.

The military authorities view the new development with some concern and will strengthen the defences of the province in the event of possible attacks from the East or West. General Chen Chai Tong, head of First Group Army, is maintaining close contact with Nanking through his liaison officer, Mr. Yang Tek Chiu.

What side the Kwang generals, Li Chung Jen, and Pai Tsung Hsi, will take towards Fukien has direct bearing on Canton's position. If Kwang supports Fukien, Canton will eventually step in line. It is believed in well informed circles here that Generals Li and Pai tacitly approve the Fukien movement, as the president of the new Government is none other than General Li Chai Hsin, a native of Kwang and close associate of Li Chung Jen and Pai Tsung Hsi.

APPEAL TO MILITARY LEADERS

Peking, November 21. Ho Ying Ching summoned a conference of military leaders at noon to-day. He reported developments in Fukien and urged them to assist the Central Government in maintaining peace in North China during the present crisis.—Reuter.

ELECTIONS IN SPAIN

New Action Party Sweeps The Board

Madrid, Nov. 21. A new popular Action Party, imbued with new ideas of discipline, has arisen in Spain.

The Party is composed chiefly of young Catholics led by Senor Gil Robles, who although only aged 34, is mentioned as possible Premier in place of Premier Barrios, whom he is reported to have defeated in the Seville election.

The party is against Socialism and the splitting up of Spain into autonomous regions. The party wants a stronger executive power.

According to the Vice-President, democracy copied from Britain is action and a farce when applied to Spain.

The characteristics of the people are totally unsuitable for Government on British lines, he asserts.

SOCIALISTS DEFEATED

Madrid, Nov. 21. The figures for the polling to elect 490 deputies for the second Spanish Cortes, issued by the Home Office last night, so far show an overwhelming victory for the Right Wing. Two hundred of the Party's deputies have been returned.

Other figures are—

Radicals, 90
Socialist, 80
Esquerra Catalana, 30.

The remainder are divided into minor parties.

Some surprise was created, on the publication of the figures, at the Radical majority over the Socialists. It was foreshadowed that the latter party would run close to the Right Wing.—Reuter.

PRIME MINISTER DEFEATED

Madrid, Nov. 21. Women Voters in Spain, given the franchise for the first time, have caused an astonishing avalanche in the election, although the position of the left wing is not quite so bad as was first feared.

There is now believed to be a distinct prospect of a Republican Coalition against the Right Wing with its Fascist tendencies.

The ironic feature of the election shows that Senor Azana's Party, the Radical-Socialists, the group which made the Republic and forced Alfonso's abdication, has been practically wiped out.

IRONIC FEATURES OF RESULTS

The defeat of the Prime Minister, Senor Barrios, is confirmed.

But he is only one of a series of prominent Ministers in the Barrios Government who went down to defeat. Besides him, the rejected include:

The Minister of Communications, Minister of War, Minister of Education, Minister for Foreign Affairs, Minister of Marine, Minister of the Interior.

The latest figures, however, show that the Radicals, with the Socialists are ahead of the Right Wing.

SECOND BALLOT BATTLE

It is believed that all the Republicans are now straining every nerve to form a coalition to fight the Right Wing parties on the second ballot, which will be necessary in Madrid, among other places.

In Madrid, the Socialists lead at present with a slight majority. Senor Azana's Party, who made the Republic, is almost wiped out, while President Zamora's Professorists obtained only one seat.

CITY QUIET

Madrid is quiet to-day and the situation is well in hand.

Sen. Barrios Defeated

Madrid, November 21. In the Spanish elections the Prime Minister, Sen. Barrios, was defeated at Seville.

Lerroux the Right Socialist Leader was elected at Valencia. General Sanjurjo, who is serving a life sentence in prison, gained every vote except four in Morocco.—Reuter.

The annual general meeting of the Helena May Institute will be held on Saturday, November 26, at 11.30 a.m. followed by an auction of magazines.

LOAN FOR U.S. COTTON FARMERS

$120,000,000 Scheme For Relief

Washington, Nov. 21. The United States Government's advance farmers four cents per pound on the Government cotton which they hold an option, has been completed.

According to Mr. Johnson, Director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the U. S. $120,000,000 that will be necessary to complete the transactions, will be obtained by a quota of U. S. $36,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with the remainder to be supplied by the Commodity Credit Corporation and commercial banks.

The loans will be based on 10 cents per pound, the farmers to receive four cents, and the Secretary of Agriculture six cents, in payment of option.—Reuter.

Washington, November 20. The Farm Administration has announced the immediate distribution of $48,000,000 to cotton producers, which constitutes a four cents per pound advance to 800,000 producers, who receive options on 2,400,000 bales of Government cotton, in return for reducing the 1934 acreage.—Reuter.

Important Meeting At Batavia

Batavia, Nov. 21. The gubernatorial conference is opening on Nov. 22 at which the Governor General presides. It is most important and will discuss political and economic problems.

134 MILES PER HOUR

Eyston's Feat At Monthery

Monthery, November 21. Mr. George Eyston, driving an eight-cylinder Panhard, yesterday established a new world record for 100 kilometres, for all classes, at an average speed of 134.73 miles per hour. Reuter.

Eyston set up a new Baby Car record at Pendine Sands on February 8 last year when he drove an M. G. Midget at 118.38 m.p.h. In April last year he covered 130.73 miles in an hour in his Panhard to set a new record.

He also holds the record for the fastest "speed" over 100 miles—131.67 m.p.h. in his Panhard in April last year.

LEAGUE MAY BE REORGANISED

Conference To Be Held In Italy?

Geneva, November 21. The question of Mr. Arthur Henderson's resignation from the Presidency of the Disarmament Conference was not raised during the Disarmament talks yesterday.

It is therefore assumed that the President is satisfied that the fulfilment he has given to the proceedings has borne useful fruit and that an adjournment, in the circumstances, does not mean procrastination.

It is believed that Sir John Simon's visit has cleared the air while M. Paul Boncour yesterday stated that the French and British attitudes have been drawn closer together.

It is generally conceded that diplomatic communications offer the best chance of real progress.

The admission that the negotiations will go outside the Disarmament Conference is taken to imply that the reorganisation of the League will also be discussed as well as the future of the Saar.

This will involve a conference outside the Disarmament Conference, ending point to the rumour of a meeting on Italian soil.—Reuter.

BUREAU TO MEET TO-MORROW

London, November 21. Representatives of the chief Powers, now at Geneva yesterday met at the house of M. Avenol, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, and decided that the meeting of the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference should be convened for to-morrow.

Efforts to reach an understanding on the best way to remove the deadlock caused by the breakdown of the October negotiations at Geneva, and the withdrawal of Germany from the Disarmament Conference, were begun on Saturday, and private conversations between the delegates will be continued to-day.

Meanwhile M. Avenol left Geneva last night to attend the funeral in Rome of Signor Scialoja, a former Italian Foreign Minister.

Geneva messages suggest that M. Avenol, while in Rome, may have an opportunity of discussing with Signor Mussolini, Italy's attitude towards the League of Nations.—British Wireless Service.

HOUSE PROBLEM IN BRITAIN

Manchester's Good Record

London, November 21. The Health Minister, Sir Hilton Young, opened the 20,000th Municipal house built in Manchester, yesterday afternoon.

He said that more houses were now built in Britain by private enterprise than at any previous time. A house of the type needed for the lower-paid wage-earner was being erected, on an average, for £281, compared with £295 when the house subsidy scheme was abolished at the end of last year.

A total of 189,000 houses were built by private enterprise in the twelve months ended in September. In the same period 49,213 houses had been completed by local authorities.

The demand for houses to buy was nearing satisfaction, and, when it was satisfied, private enterprise would turn its attention increasingly to the erection of cheaper houses, to be let to manual workers.—British Wireless Service.

Inter-Imperial Relationship

CONFERENCE HELD IN LONDON

London, Nov. 21. Representatives of the Royal Empire Society, the Overseas League and 10 other organisations, whose several activities are directed to the broad purpose of extending and strengthening the personal side of the inter-imperial relationship, met the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. E. Thomas, at the Dominions Office, yesterday afternoon.

They discussed the possibility of rendering their activities still more effective through closer co-operation among their individual bodies.

A proposal that the subject should be examined in detail at further meetings under a chairman-nominated by the Secretary of State for the Dominions, was welcomed.—British Wireless Service.

BRITAIN TO SUSTAIN WORLD PEACE

KING'S SPEECH ON OPENING PARLIAMENT

Wish To Settle Disarmament Problem

The State opening of Parliament by Their Majesties was carried out in ancient ceremonial in dull weather, but there was the usual brilliant scene at the House of Lords.—Reuter.

HOPE OF IMPROVING UNEMPLOYMENT

His Majesty the King in opening Parliament said the central purpose of the Government was to promote and sustain every means in their power for peace in the world. The Government will continue to co-operate with other Governments in an endeavour to reach a satisfactory solution of the complicated questions of disarmament in order to achieve a settlement acceptable to all and attain fruitful results from the prolonged labours of the disarmament conference.

The Government is determined to uphold the work of international co-operation by collective action through the machinery of the League of Nations and all other ways calculated to further good relations between all states and peoples.—Reuter.

In future prospects of British trade and industry, it is most important this confidence be maintained and increased.

By careful attention and sound principles in the control of expenditure and measures calculated to encourage enterprise my Ministers will endeavour to promote a gradual return of the nation to conditions which will permit an easing of the present burdens.

EXPORT TRADE

My Ministers will continue their efforts to create favourable conditions in our export trade, especially by the negotiation of trade agreements by which we hope opportunities will be afforded for the development of the cotton, coal and other exporting trades.

Measures will be submitted, inter alia, to put unemployment insurance on a sound permanent footing and to establish a new system to assist unemployed outside this insurance.—Reuter.

LABOUR INTERRUPTION

In the House of Lords after H.M. the King made his speech, the left wing Labourite, Mr. Mc Govern, who has been suspended in the House of Commons on several occasions for defying the Speaker, shouted "What about the means test unemployment cut? It is a shame while people are starving." He was referring to the splendour of the scene. No notice was taken of the interruption, their Majesties leaving the House in accordance with the programme.—Reuter.

SIR ARTHUR SALTER AT SHANGHAI

Sir Arthur Salter, the Frenchman M. Monnet and Mr. Drummond, a son of the ex-Secretary General of the League, arrived this evening aboard the Empress of Japan to join the National Commission as advisers. They immediately proceeded to the residence of Mr. T. V. Soong with whom they dined.—Reuter.

RACING.

What a glorious day's racing we had on Saturday! It was good to see honours going evenly round and I am sure no one could have wished for better dividends than those paid out. Messrs. King Bros. found ample compensation for the defeat of Night Star and Charming Star the fortnight previous, by the victories of these two candidates. Butler steered home Night Star in grand fashion, while Harriman's win on Charming Star was equally well judged; in fact more so, for Harriman rode a confident race and only made a serious attempt to pass the field when less than a furlong from home. Incidentally Brechin and Vigilance, the "Daily Press" selections brought off the Doubles, and I must take this opportunity of congratulating the race scribe for the four winners he selected and also upon the fact that 17 out of the 24 ponies named for a place turned up! Keep up the good work.

TO LEAD OR NOT TO LEAD.

Why is it that a pony which leads the field in any race over a mile generally does not win? Of course this is not true of ponies running out of their class, as for instance, if Diana Ray or Trent-bridge were pitched against "B" Class ponies, in which case you would expect them to lead all the way. But why is it that ponies of equal calibre generally suffer by a good start? Two such cases occurred on Saturday and the pony in each case led the field following a good start, but could not keep up his position. Under the circumstances, one might be justified in asking whether a good start is very important in a long race; for so long as a jockey can avoid being left, he appears to have a better chance than another who takes his pony out in front early on. At the Annual Meetings, it is noticeable that the Shanghai jockeys do not scramble for the lead in races over a mile, and the fight for position really begins when the field has passed the Rock on its run down the bend before entering the straight.

BRECHIN'S WIN.

Brechin's win in the "C" Class despite his 168 pounds is likely to earn him promotion, although at the time of writing no announcement to that effect has yet been made. Brechin came down here as a Derby griffin for Messrs. Mackie and Grayburn and at the Annual Meeting won two races. He then went off considerably and has only recently been displaying his true form. Brechin is reported by those who have ridden him as a very classy pony indeed and may well be expected to figure in "A" Class races one day. It will be recalled that he ran a very good second to Cossack's Beauty last month when over a mile, the winner finished under two minutes.

CRICKET.

Looking back on the Interport cricket, one realizes what a tremendous amount of cricket we have had for the past fortnight. The culminating point of the interport was the dinner at Friday night when there was plenty of good fellowship and good spirits! Those who have read the reports of that function must realize with some regret that two of Hongkong's finest cricketers, namely H.R.B. Hancock and T. E. Pearos, played the roles of lookers-on this year. Since 1906, one or the other has led Hongkong at all our home matches and their guidance and experience will still stand us in good stead. Both will probably be serving on the Selection Committee for many years and their wisdom is sure to result on Hongkong fielding the best eleven at all times. So much has been written of the interport by the scribes, however, that I will leave off here and turn your attention to league cricket.

THE FIRST MATCH.

The first match of the season was between the Indians and the Navy. Naturally there were few who expected any other result than an overwhelming victory for the Indians and events proved that they were right. The Indians will be able to field a very good eleven this season and there is every possibility of their putting up a good hope for league honours, though the other teams in the league, particularly the H.K.C.C. and the K.C.C., are bound to have a good deal to say about it. These three Clubs have several interports each in their ranks and will spare nothing in their effort to carry off the honours. I don't think that the University, with such opposition to face as they have this year, is likely to recapture the first division title. How they will miss Donald Anderson, who helped them so considerably to carry off the honours last season!

FOOTBALL.

The outstanding feature of the week's football is of course the failure of the Lincolns to secure full points in their match against the Navy. The Navy fielded a strong team and it did not surprise anyone to see them hold the Lincolns, although, all things considered the soldiers were unlucky not to get full points. This single draw may affect their chances for league honours and I am not at all sure that South China will not be leading the league table by the end of the next fortnight. Speaking of South China reminds me that they had a very narrow escape at Caroline Hill on Saturday when the Police held them to a victory of only a single goal. In fact, had the Police been more enterprising, and less wild in front of goal, they might have equalised on more than one occasion. I cannot help feeling in retrospect, that South China's reputation won them the match as much as did their play, the standard of which was on this occasion not much better than the display given by the Police, and certainly not convincing.

TENNIS.

Judging from the result of the game between M. W. Lo and Mrs. Litton against E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Dalziel, it would appear that the winners stand a good chance of carrying off the championship this year. M. W. Lo is playing as well as ever this season and Mrs. Litton is playing once again in her usual steady way. This pair has the advantage of having played many seasons together and at the time of writing, (Tuesday morning) though the result of the other semi-final is not yet known, it is safe to predict that the Chinese pair will win.

OLYMPIC GAMES IN GERMANY

Threat By American Athletic Union

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—The National Convention of the American Athletic Union yesterday passed a resolution calling on the International Olympic Committee to inform Germany that unless the German Jewish athletes are permitted to "train and prepare for participation in the Olympic Games in 1936," the United States athletes would not participate. It was further resolved that: "The plea of the United States athletes should be taken not as one of bitterness, but as one of concern for a way to be found for Germany to satisfy the world that all, and not merely some of the fundamental principles of democracy in sport and the Olympic Games are, and will continue to be dominant."—Reuter.

Goldman And Mrs. Lochner For Final

Lolly Goldman and Mrs. Lochner qualified to meet M. W. Lo and Mrs. Litton in the final of the mixed double championship on Saturday, when they beat Capt. Cannon and Mrs. James by two sets to one in the semi-final yesterday, the scores being 8-6, 4-6 and 6-4.

The game was, as the scores indicate, a very close one, and it was due to their better understanding and combination that Goldman and his partner won.

RUGBY

Navy Defeat Army At Sookunpoo

The Navy-Army rugby match at Sookunpoo yesterday attracted a large crowd of spectators, and in addition to the many Service men who filled the two stands, there was a good number of civilians, including many ladies.

The game was a very fast one and the Navy, with the advantage of being the heavier pack, were too good for their soldier-opponents and won easily, the final scores being 15-3.

HOCKEY

A representative team from the crew of H.M.S. Cumberland defeated a side composed of officers from the same vessel, by a score of four goals to two. The game took place at the King's Park ground yesterday afternoon.

SHANGHAI LOSE BY ONE RUN

Leach And Wilson Bat Well

EXCITING GAME ON CLUB GROUND

The captain and Vice-captain of the Shanghai team played gallant cricket in an effort to save their side from defeat in their match with the United Services and but for a bad piece of running by Tommy Madar, they would have been successful. As it was, Shanghai lost by one run in one of the most exciting finishes seen on the Club ground for many a long day.

Donald Leach played a good innings for his 58 though he was visibly a tired man in the later stages of his knock. Torry Wilson on the other hand, was still full of "kick" and he put the ball out of the ground three times in the space of about ten minutes, getting 29 runs rapidly only to see his partner fall him at the critical moment.

Shanghai were one run behind when Wilson skied the ball to Williams at mid-off. It looked an easy catch but Wilson ran down the pitch and as if to oblige him, Williams missed the catch.

Madar, who was batting at the other end, failed to grasp the situation and failed to start so that when he finally did, he was too late and Williams who had by this time recovered the ball sent in a good return for the wicket-keeper to put the batsman out.

SERVICES BAT FIRST

The Services won the toss and elected to bat. Thanks to some consistent batting all the way down, they totalled 182 with Stephenson (39) and Walter (31) as top scorers.

Then Shanghai went in and soon met with disaster, losing three wickets for 29 runs. Leach, however, played a regular captain's innings and put a stop to the run by scoring 58 in fine style. Then Wilson, the vice-captain, hit at everything in the good old village style to score a rapid 29, but their efforts were unavailing, and the Services won a sporting game by just one run.

The scores were:—

SHANGHAI LEAVE

The Shanghai team sailed by the s.s. President Taft which left at mid-night last night. There were a large number of cricket enthusiasts present to give them a hearty send-off, those present including some of the Hong Kong interport team.

Pat Madar, however, did not leave with the team as he is staying behind for business reasons. It is believed, however, that he will be sailing in a day or two.

HOME FOOTBALL KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH THE PLAYERS

THIS GURNEY BUSINESS

Bob Gurney, and newcastle united's centre-forward position. These are the North-East's mysteries. Suppose we clear the air. Leicester City started the Gurney business weeks ago when Mr. Peter Hogde, without warning, rang up Sunderland, and asked if they were willing to part with a centre-forward. Gurney was suggested. "We want a man to add punch to a good and clever line." That was Leicester's idea.

Sunderland said "No"—emphatically.

Then Manchester City and Birmingham inquired, the Midlands club eventually going so far as to send a representative to watch Gurney play against Liverpool.

LEICESTER AGAIN

Sunderland began to think "If there is going to be competition for Gurney we may get our price for him."

GROUND STAFF BABE

The third tom thumb in Yorkshire is Alan Fowler, aged 21, 5ft. 4in., 9st. 8, and the centre-forward—following the injury to Hyres—of Leeds United's First Division team.

As he scored all four goals in three successive victories (2-1, 1-0 and 1-0) over the Wednesday, Manchester City, and Portsmouth, the man who cried "Too small!" may have spoken too soon.

But Fowler is Leeds United's "babe." This is how they brought him up:

Age. 15.—Taken under the club's wing from schools football at Rothwell, placed on the ground staff, and played in White-hall Printers' team.

18-20.—In Leeds United's Central League team.

"We hoped that work on the ground would build him up," Leeds United tell me. "But he just won't fatten." Anyway, he is on the way to making his mark—weight or no weight.

GURNEY'S SUCCESSOR

Can Sunderland do without Gurney? The truth is, they have his successor in hand. They know exactly when and where they are going to get him, and he is neither a Scot nor a product of the North-East. He is a League player.

NEWCASTLE AND ALLEN

Now about Allen and Newcastle. Whatever the public may be thinking, the United-directors are not perturbed about the centre-forward position. They have been reported from various quarters as looking for a new leader. The reports are not true, and, in any case, Allen, despite his obvious limitations, has been less responsible for the United's indifferent start than several other members of the team.

Weaver's return to from proved that beyond doubt. As soon as Weaver reproduced his old dominating attack, Newcastle scored their first Saturday victory. Allen has merely been the critics' scapegoat. He may not be a great centre-forward, but he will get plenty of goals for the United this season if the rest of the team returns to its old Cup-winning form.

JACK NOT FOR CHARLTON

The secretary of Charlton Athletic said last night that negotiations between Charlton Athletic Football Club and the Arsenal F.C. for the transfer of David Jack had broken down. Jack will remain with the Arsenal.

BOLTON'S RECRUIT

It is doubtful whether supporters of Bolton Wanderers will see James Cochrane, their recent South African capture, in the team yet awhile. Cochrane, who only arrived this week from Cape Town, is out of training just now, and also will probably require some time to get acclimatised. Able to play on either flank, Cochrane had the reputation of being the best back in South Africa. He hopes to continue his study of commercial art in this country.

J. R. AUTY'S INJURY

I was glad to hear that the playing career of J. R. Auty, the Headingley, Yorkshire, and England trial half-back, is not, as was feared, ended.

Auty, a singularly unfortunate player, in regard to injuries, was cracked in his first and only match this season—against Liverpool a fortnight ago—and it was reported that he had broken a bone in his leg. But Auty writes to tell me that the injury is not so serious and he will be playing again in a fortnight's time.

FOUND IN NEXT FIELD

Yet Harry Nuttall, the former Bolton International, who helped the club to win the Cup three times in six years, was born on the Wanderers' ground!

And Tranmere Rovers had only to look "in the next field" (Mr. Bert Cooks, the secretary, tells me) to find a rising star like Harry Pearson, an outside right of 18, who is fast becoming the talk of the Third Division.

TOM THUMB'S TURN

The little man still keeps poking his nose in. There isn't a better inside forward playing than Stevenson, the 5-ft. 4in., 10st 6-lb. Irishman, of Glasgow Rangers.

And Little Smith, this merry midget starred with him in the Sheffield-Glasgow duel.

SECOND DIVISION MIDGETS

But the midgets I am more particularly interested in just now are in the West Riding. James H. Robertson, inside-right of Bradford—5ft. 4in., and 10st.—strayed from Berwick to the welfare team of Welbeck Colliery, whence he was persuaded to Bradford.

He it was who scored seven goals in his trial match and found the Park Avenue officials literally on the touchline with pen and ink and full League forms to sign.

He scored 10 goals in comparatively few Second Division games for the club last season, and on being recalled to the side recently this season opened with three goals in three games.

ANOTHER BESTALL

As he can play anywhere in the forward line, and is a natural yet crafty footballer, Robertson is fast becoming the Bestall of Bradford. Some call Robertson the smallest forward in the Second Division. As the measurements of Bestall, the darling of Grimsby Town, are 5ft. 5in. and 9st., you can fight it out among yourselves.

MILLER FOR CHELSEA

Most of Chelsea's supporters will be pleased that a place in the first team has been found for Harold Miller, even if he cannot fill his usual position in the attack. Chelsea are making no wild experiment in playing him at left-half. He has had a sound test in that position in the reserves, and has proved eminently satisfactory.

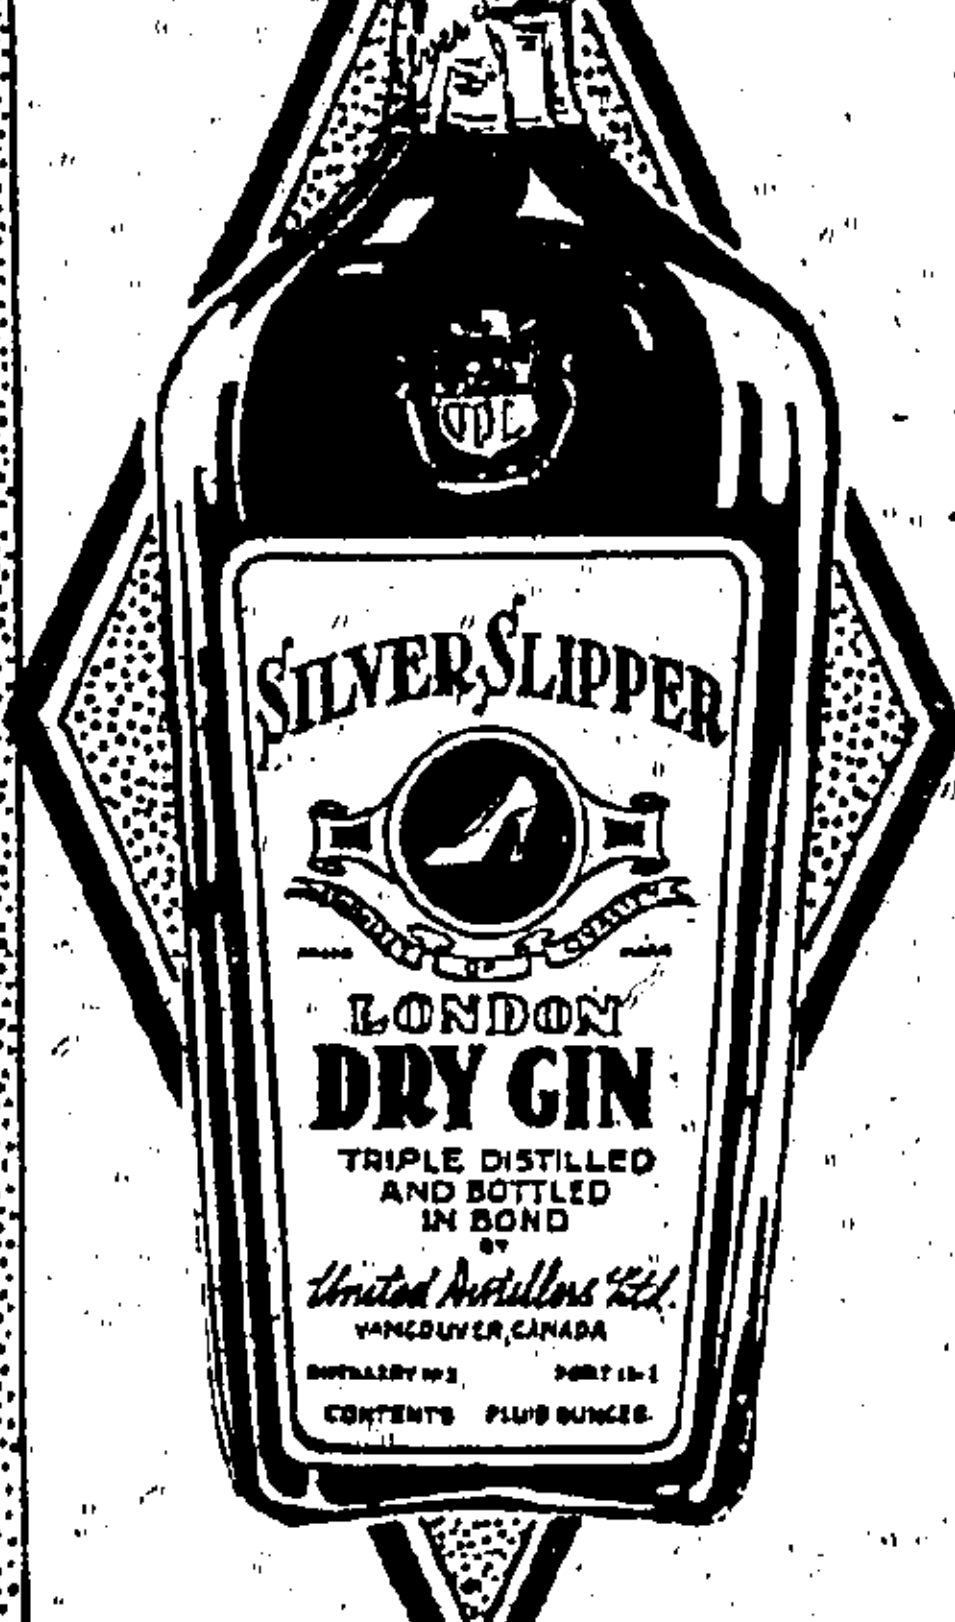

There are many clubs who hold a high opinion of Miller's worth. Not long ago I heard an Aston Villa director—himself an old player—express the opinion that Miller was in the £10,000 class. Miller is no giant. He is, indeed, probably the smallest half-back Chelsea have played since the days of Tommy Meehan.

HIGH-SPEED GOAL-GETTING. Just six more goals does Pearce, Charlton's centre-forward, need to make his League total into 100. Yet it was only in the 1930-31 season that he entered League football.

35 for Swansea Town, and last season his "bag" was 23 for Charlton. Already he has 14 this season, the same number as Bowers (Derby County) and Glover (Grimsby Town).

Cookson, now with Plymouth Argyle, holds, I believe, the "speed" record, for after 44 in 1925-26 and 41 in 1926-27 with Chesterfield, he achieved three figures with West Bromwich Albion before half the 1927-28 season was over—just two and a half seasons.

WATFORD'S NEW GOALKEEPER

James McLaren, Watford's new goalkeeper from Leicester City, has had a long and useful career in League football. When he arrived at Leicester from Bradford City at the beginning of the 1927-8 season, he ousted a Scottish international in Kenneth Campbell. He guarded the Leicester goal until late last season when he, in turn, had to make way for another Scottish international, his namesake Alexander McLaren, from St. Johnstone.

McLaren, who is tall and agile, should add stability to the Watford defence. He is a native of Falkirk and played with Stenhousemuir before he was introduced to English football at the beginning of the 1922-3 season. His first name in the Second Division was played on the Clapton Orient ground.

SPURS SIGN A SCORER

Tottenham Hotspur have secured the services, on amateur terms, of Cyril Tralor, a Welsh schoolboy international from Merthyr Tydfil. Tralor, a centre-forward, was a prolific goal scorer with his school team last season, obtaining 92 goals in all, thirty of which he scored in the last six matches. He will play with the Tottenham Juniors.

I see that Chelsea have followed the football fashion and have secured a player from South Africa—W. F. Gibb, the Transvaal outside-left. He is the eighth South African footballer imported to England. At first glance, League clubs seem to be taking terrific gambles in signing these South Africans without seeing them in action. But really, they come out of the deal quite well.

There are no high transfer fees to pay. All that is entailed is the cost of a player's passage from the Cape and his wages for a season. If he fails to settle down in League football, that is that. If he is a success, then a club has a ready-made "star" for something like £350.

MISTAKE OVER MAW

When Arthur Maw, the Leicester City inside forward, was with Notts County he was given only 34 chances in League football during four seasons. The Meadow Lane club, I believe, held the view that the "Scunthorpe-born" youth was too frail for the stress and storm of modern football.

Then came an offer from Mr. Peter Hodge, the Leicester City manager, and Maw left Notts County at a modest fee. He has jumped right into the Soccer limelight, and one wonders what price would be put on his head if he were in the transfer market to-day.

STERILIZATION OF THE UNFIT

Dr. Barnes's Concern For The Future Race

The Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. Barnes) advocated the sterilization of the unfit at the annual medical service at Liverpool Cathedral yesterday.

He quoted from the Sermon on the Mount: "Men do not gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles." He said: "I put it to you to-day that such teaching has been forgotten in the somewhat indiscriminate humanitarianism which has actuated our social legislation during the past century. In rightly attempting to remove social injustice, we have allowed zeal to outrun wisdom."

"Under the harsh social order which prevailed almost to our own time, those human beings who were manifestly unfitted for the struggle and responsibilities of civilized life failed to survive. The unfit, the defective and degenerate were eliminated. But of late at great cost to the community we have not only preserved them, but have also allowed them to propagate their like. I ask you to assent to my own conviction that such blind humanitarianism is neither Christian nor sensible."

"Obviously, in the light of such knowledge as is already beyond question, we ought not to allow those people in whom serious hereditary defects are apparent to have children."

"It is strange that Government action in this country has been so tardy in this matter, and I rejoice to see that at length a Minister of Health has recognized the urgent need of organized research."

JAPAN'S BUDGET
REDUCTIONEmergency Demands
To Be Met

Tokyo, November 17. Mr. G. Takahashi, the Finance Minister, has finally fixed the total amount of budget estimates for the forthcoming fiscal year at ¥2,017,000,000. This is a drastic reduction of ¥300,000,000 in comparison with the surface figures.

The Finance Minister's assessment of budgetary estimates have been received with satisfaction in most circles as they are intended to meet the financial stringency of the country and, at the same time, take into consideration the emergency demands of the War and Navy Offices for armament replenishment.

Mr. Takahashi's action is generally considered a splendid gesture, in that he has given full approval to the basic demands of the Army and Navy leaders in the form of the completion of basic materials for operations in the case of the army and the completion of the second replenishment programme and the aerial armament replenishment plan in case of the navy. At the same time, however, he made drastic cuts in other items in the demands of these two Ministries. In other branches of the administration, sweeping retrenchments were made, leaving only measures of urgent necessity to tide over the emergency.

The figures represent a reduction of ¥290,000,000 as compared with the current year's budget.

While commending the Finance Minister's approval of most of their basic demands, the War and Navy Offices are dissatisfied with the cut made in other items, it being pointed out that the cut in the army budget had been reduced by nearly fifty per cent. They therefore propose to put the issue before the Cabinet budgetary committee shortly. In view of the atmosphere thus prevailing, it is predicted that the budget conference will witness some heated discussions.—Rengo.

War Ministry to Insist.

At a meeting of officials of the War Ministry this afternoon, called by General S. Araki, the Minister, it was decided that such a slash as that proposed by Mr. Takahashi was out of the question. The demands of the Ministry for expenses in Manchuria and for the completion of the military equipment programme must be met, it was stated, as both these items are of the utmost importance in view of the present situation on the Soviet-Manchukuo border, where Red armies are concentrating, of the vital necessity for Japan to complete her armaments programme by 1936. Therefore, it was decided to insist on the demands being accepted.

Meanwhile, the Finance Minister to-day explained that no increases in national taxes were contemplated in the 1934 budget.—Rengo.

"As we reflect alike upon the sternness of God and upon the freedom of Christ's teaching from any hint of indulgent good-faith, we ought to become willing to accept in our social order measures against which religious sentimentality will raise an outcry." He added:

"In the troubled years that lie ahead, England is to save herself by her exertions and the world by her example. She must be racially sound. We cannot indefinitely carry the burden of a social problem class, riddled with mental defect and comprising one-tenth of the community."

GOLD MINING IN MANCHOUKUOOperations to be
State Controlled

Harbin, Nov. 6. The authorities of Manchoukuo, in trying to introduce the strictest state control of the gold industry, has just worked out a new mining code of regulations which does not permit the export of gold.

A special gold mining company with a capital of 15,000,000 Kuo-bi is to be established, part of the capital being Manchoukuo and the other part Japanese. The organization of this gold mining project was begun in May of this year and at the present moment is so far advanced that the fulfilment of the proposed activities of this company may be expected very shortly. One of the first activities will be that of sending out surveying parties throughout the whole of Manchoukuo soil being estimated at somewhere near 5,000,000,000 Kuo-bi, the largest gold beds being in the Kirin and Heilungkiang provinces, though there is also gold to be found in Mukden and Jehol provinces.

Up to the present, gold mining in Manchoukuo has been conducted by primitive methods. The Government of Manchoukuo, having decided to control gold mining districts of the country, will forbid the transfer of rights, or mines and the beginning of new work until such time as the mining code has been fully confirmed. This, however, does not concern the rights of those undertakings which have already been legally obtained.

JOINT MANAGEMENT

The gold bearing land of the country will be divided into state and co-operative areas. The state will take all the gold bearing plots in the northern parts of the Hingan Province and all similar plots in the Heilungkiang and Kirin provinces, while the co-operative gold bearing plots will be those which are to be found in the Mukden and Jehol provinces and in the southern part of the Hingan province. Gold mining on those plots will be sanctioned by the Government. A special gold mining corporation will carry on its operations under the joint management of Manchoukuo and Japan. In the beginning this company will carry on its work on the state gold bearing plots and will also develop operations in other mining areas. Some of the state mines will be offered for working on rental terms.

For the purpose of preventing any gold leaving the country an embargo has been placed on all output and in forbidding the export of gold the Government will take measures to purchase the gold output. All gold from the state mines as well as from the other areas will be purchased by the Government. Manual labour which has been in existence up to the present will be replaced by rational methods for the purpose of increasing the output.

NORWEGIAN VIEW

Subsidies Spreading Like Plague.

Commenting upon the South African Government's contract with the two Italian shipping companies, the Navigazione Libera Triestina and the Italia Company the Norges Handels og Seifartsselskabet states:—"It is hopeless for shipping companies enjoying no Government assistance to compete successfully with companies receiving State aid to the extent of 2,450,000 per annum."

"In Germany the new catch-word is that a nation must sacrifice something for her fleet, and sacrifices are being made. France supports her lines; during the summer, for instance, a single French company was powerfully supported by the Government. The attitude of the United States regarding national shipping is well known. Italy also supports her cargo vessels."

"Government assistance to national shipping is spreading like a plague from country to country, while simultaneously the amount of subvention is continually increasing for the simple reason that the more such companies are bolstered up the less suited they gradually become for the struggle for existence."

"In the meantime, the attitude displayed by foreign Governments in regard to national shipping is, in reality, a forcible appeal to the Norwegian Government to consider whether the time for giving Norwegian shipowners reasonable relief has not arrived. No one in Norway desires State assistance for our merchant fleet. On the other hand, there is a vast gulf between Government aid and an enormous pressure of taxation and other burdens of various description."

OPENING OF NEW MUSEUM

Shanghai's Important
Achievement

Representing the intellectual life of Shanghai, hundreds of members and guests filled the spacious halls of the museum of the Royal Asiatic Society (North China Branch), at its formal opening by Mr. A. D. Bell, Chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council, yesterday morning. On behalf of the Museum Council,
the Rev. Evan Morgan welcomed the visitors, pointing out that the major credit for the new museum should go to Mr. A. de C. Sowerby, the Director. Due to his efforts, Shanghai residents will be able to become acquainted with most of the funna of China
without leaving the city.

Dr. Morgan then introduced
"an old friend of the Society,"
Dr. J. C. Ferguson of Peking, who said:
"A cycle of Cathay has passed since this museum was founded by a resolution of the Council of the Society on March 24, 1874.
Without the help of an endowment or any large gifts, it has grown to its present proportions
through the interest which the public has taken in its welfare
these sixty years. It was started by public subscription and has been maintained by public interest. It is an institution devoted to the public and dedicated to public interest. Our North-China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society has been its custodian, but it belongs to the public. The Society has its library and its yearly journal which are the property of the members but the museum is owned by the community, of which the Society is only one part."

A BRITISH GIFT
"This public interest in the establishment of a museum in the seventies of the last century was the deciding factor which induced the British Government to make its generous gift of the site
for this new building, which now provides a home for the library and museum, as well as a hall
in which both institutions can keep in touch with their supporters. The Museum has been fortunate in enlisting the voluntary services of a long line of Curators, of whom the first was W. B. Pryer, who had among his assistants such worthy men as Kingsmill, Keswick, and Wylie in service was the late Dr. Anthony Stanley, of the Municipal Health Department, and it is due to his indefatigable labours that the specimens have been preserved to our time in as good condition as they are now found. His great contribution to the welfare of the Museum was made with such modesty that it is liable to be overlooked, but those of us who were associated with him cannot fail to recall to your memory on this occasion his splendid work.
The Society showed its appreciation of Dr. Stanley by electing him President.

"The name of de la Touche must also be remembered as one of the most enthusiastic friends
and contributors which the Museum has ever had. In our present Hon. Director, Mr. Sowerby, we have the rare contribution of naturalist, artist, and writer. He has worked night and day for our present-day Museum, soliciting contributions, getting the building into orderly arrangement and exhibiting the specimens according to modern methods. You have only to look around to see what Mr. Sowerby and his associates have accomplished and in this group I am sure that you will all agree with me in a special mention of Mrs. Sowerby.

VALUE TO SCHOOLS
"My hope for the continued usefulness to the community of this Museum is centred in the establishment of a close relation between it and the schools of Shanghai and surrounding country. At some time during the school year every pupil in every school in this district should be brought to the museum. This can be provided for on Saturdays and

A JADE AND A MARBLE MINE

Undeveloped Wealth In The New Territories

(By Our Special Correspondent)

How many people in the Colony know that there is a jade mine in the New Territories? To be perfectly frank I did not know about it myself until a few days ago,
when a friend of mine who had actually been out to it gave me
a vivid description of what he saw.

Actually there are a few mines grouped together, and while marble is found in one place, in other spots jade may be found—not the pretty green jade that is so expensive, but jade of a less costly nature. Not being well-versed in precious stones, I do not know their technical description so I shall refer to them as jade-black,
red, white yellow and vermillion,
those are the colours of the stones
that are unearthed in these mines.

Speaking about the mines themselves, these are situated in Sha
Tau Kok, Kut-O and Cheung Pal Tau and the best way of getting out is to take a train to as far as Taipo Market and from there charter a sampan which will take one to the mines in about an hour. It will be seen then that the trip out is going to take some time, so if any of you want to go out, be sure you allow sufficient time for the journey there and back so that there will be a good two or three hours to spend in inspecting the mines without having to make a hurried tour round the place.

These mines are being operated by a private individual, not by any firm or syndicate, and for that reason, I understand no very great expense is being made in the development of the project. At the present time a gang of coolies

are employed at the site and they use the primitive pick and shovel to sink holes nine to ten feet deep when the stone is reached.

The jade is then brought up in fairly large-sized lumps, and when they come up to the "surface" an examination is made by the men employed for this purpose. The good ones are sorted out and sent to the "cutting house" where skilled workmen shape them into ornamental pieces, such as pendants, ear-rings, bangles, necklaces. Nicely shaped bits are kept aside for mounting on gold or silver.

Compared to the green jade,
these stones are really inexpensive, but of late the fashion amongst the Chinese seems to have taken a trend towards using them
more and more in place of the more expensive articles. I saw a cigarette mouth-piece made of a piece of vermillion "jade" and very pretty it was too. In some cases, these stones are not unlike amber though they are a harder stone than amber and they also cost a little more.

The marble found in these mines
are also of fairly good quality and while the larger slabs are used for making table tops and the like, the marble chips are used for terrazzo work.

It will be seen therefore, that here is a field for much development and as I understand that the mines will be worked to a greater extent in the near future,
we may hear of a big jade and marble industry springing up in the New Territories where already some of Hong Kong's biggest factories are situated.

LORRY DRIVER FOUND NOT GUILTY

Fined Only On Technical Charge

Summing up the evidence concerning the death of Mul Kan,
who was killed when a bicycle which he was riding crashed into a lorry driven by Yan Tong on November 17 at the intersection of Shanghai Road and Bute Street, Mr. Wynne-Jones, exonerated the driver in the Kowloon magistracy yesterday, from being in any way responsible for the accident. Mr. Wynne-Jones however, found him guilty upon the technical charge of driving with poor brakes and fined him 15 dollars.

Sergeant Scrims was the only witness called testified as to the marks on the road following the accident and also to the condition of the brakes of the lorry. He claimed that when he made tests following the fatal accident he discovered that the brakes worked excellently when the lorry was empty but with the load it was carrying at the time of the tragedy they were practically useless. He gave the position of the two vehicles at the time of the collision, showing clearly that the bicycle was not only on the wrong side of the road
but that the lorry driver had no chance of avoiding him.

In pronouncing sentence Mr.
Wynne-Jones stated, "You have killed a man, but I don't think any charge can be laid against you of negligence. If your brakes had been super perfect and if your lorry had not been overloaded you would still have killed
He broke all rules of the road and came right across your path. As I am regarding it purely as a technical offense I will fine you fifteen dollars."

The magistrate then asked Inspector Saunders of the Traffic Department if he thought it

NEW OIL DOCK

Colombo Harbour Engineer's Proposal Approved

At the meeting of the Colombo Port Commission held on October 23, Mr. G. S. Wodeman, Principal Collector of Customs, presided and those present were: Dr. R. Briercliffe, O.B.E., Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, Mr. E. W. Head, General Manager, Ceylon Government Railway, Mr. V. L. Murphy, O.C.S., Chairman, Municipal Council and Mayor of Colombo Mr. C. E. Jones, C.C.S., Deputy Collector of Customs, Commander Clive A. Robinson, D.S.O., R.N. (Retd.), Acting Master Attendant, Messrs. T. A. O'Connell, Acting Harbour Engineer, M. J. Cary, W. Duncan, C. H. Z. Fernando, J. X. Pereira, L. P. Samson, J. A. Tarbat, K. J. Witham-Wignall and E. H. Davies, C.C.S. (Secretary). Considered scheme suggested by the Harbour Engineer for the construction of an oil dock on the North side of the Graving Dock Guide Pier in addition to the deep water quay and basin previously approved. The proposed scheme was approved. It was also decided that the proposals should be circulated for the information of the sub-committee on Port Development.

CRANE FOR THE GRAVING DOCK

Read letter dated October 11, 1933, from the Honourable the Minister for Communications and Works to the Honourable the Chief Secretary regarding the proposed 30-ton crane for the Graving Dock. It was decided that provision be included for the proposed crane in the Draft Estimates for 1934-35. Considered plans submitted by the Director of Public Works for the extension of the Approach Bridge at the Passenger Jetty. The plans were approved. It was decided that these proposals be noted for consideration when detailed estimates of cost are available.

Considered the question of providing a site in the Harbour for the fumigation of barges. It was agreed that the matter be deferred.

Considered the renewal of the temporary lease of the site at the north side of the Graving Dock held by the Imperial and International Communications Ltd., or the storage of submarine cable. It was decided that the lease be renewed for a further period of one year with effect from January 1st, 1934, on the same terms as at present.
